

Car Tax Rebate Dying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is ready to kill President Carter's proposed rebate on fuel-efficient cars, but Democratic leaders are trying to salvage his plan to tax big gas-gulping vehicles.

"The rebate doesn't have any support at all," Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the influential committee, said Wednesday.

But in an apparent effort to delay a vote on the companion tax on cars that get poor gas mileage, Ullman postponed until today a formal vote on killing the rebate.

The committee finished its second day of work on Carter's energy-tax proposals Wednesday. One opponent, Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., said 20 of the 37 members of the panel were ready to vote against the so-called gas-guzzler tax.

Ullman predicted the tax will be approved by the panel. But it will not go into effect at least until the 1979 model year, he said, and some committee members want to postpone it until 1980.

But Waggoner said he was advising against any delay. "The votes are there to kill it but it won't be killed if they approve the delay," he said.

Working on Carter's other energy tax proposals, the panel approved a tax credit of up to $400 for persons who improve the fuel efficiency of their homes and a credit of up to $2,000 for purchasers of home heating and cooling systems powered by the sun or wind.

In both cases, the credits proposed by Carter were rejected in favor of versions offered by committee members.

The rebate and gas-guzzler tax are key elements of the far-reaching energy program Carter spelled out on April 20. Another major provision — a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon — also is in deep trouble.

In an effort to reduce U.S. gasoline consumption 10 per cent by 1985, Carter asked Congress to impose a gradually increasing tax of up to $2,500 on cars that get poor gasoline mileage and allow a rebate of up to $500 for buyers of fuel-efficient models.

The tax and rebate would be based on the fuel-efficiency standards already in the law. These standards require each manufacturer to produce a fleet of passenger cars that averages 18 miles per gallon for 1978 models, 19 mpg in 1979 and 27.5 mpg by 1985.

Current law already sets a penalty on the manufacturer — which would be paid ultimately by the purchaser — of $50 for each mile per gallon the fleet falls below the standard. And the penalty would be paid for every car made by that company — not just the ones that did not meet the standard.

If, for example, a company fleet of two million cars averaged only 18 mpg in 1979, rather than the 19 mpg standard, that firm would be penalized $100 million.

General Motors says it can meet the 1978 standard; Chrysler and Ford are not sure. Committee members who favor the gas-guzzler tax are trying to modify Carter's proposals in a way that will not reduce the competitive position of any of the three largest manufacturers.

The fourth U.S. automaker, American Motors, specializes in small cars and supports the tax.

Assembly Split On Bargaining Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Organized labor has a new edge in a 30-year struggle to repeal a law barring strikes by public employees.

But a second priority of labor—to provide job protection for teachers—has been blocked.

When the votes were counted Wednesday, the labor movement could show only mixed results for its heavy investment last year in Democratic candidates.

"We've got a good bill in the Senate and we think we better be satisfied with it," said Ohio AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Warren J. Smith after the Senate approved collective bargaining for public employees.

The straight party line 21-12 vote with unanimous Republican opposition sent the bill to the House where minority party members and employer groups will wage a renewed struggle to defeat it, or at least water it down.

The roll call on the Senate floor came just minutes after the House, in a surprise move, sent back to committee a bill that would establish due process, tenure and evaluation procedures for public school teachers.

John Hall, lobbyist for the Ohio Education Association, representing more than 80,000 teachers, refused to concede defeat.

"I look on what happened in the House as positive," Hall said. "We now know who we've got to talk to."

The 49-46 vote to refer the bill to the Rules Committee indicated the OEA had better talk to at least 14 state representatives. A bare 50 vote majority probably wouldn't be enough, since Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed a similar measure last year and 60 votes are required to override a veto.

Rhodes also vetoed collective bargaining in the previous legislative session, his resistance to such key union issues was a major factor labor's determination to elect a veto-proof Democratic majority.

The collective bargaining bill approved by the Senate would grant nearly 500,000 state, county and municipal workers express legal authority to join unions, bargain collectively and, as a last resort, walk the picket line.

Many public employees already belong to unions which call strikes, but under the Ferguson Act employer can shortcircuit a walk out through a court injunction.

Two key amendments were added to the legislation, sponsored by Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown.

One mandated that patrolmen and supervisors (superior officers) in police departments must belong to separate bargaining units to prevent any strike that might threaten the health and safety of a city.

"I would like to know who's going to run the ship in times of disaster, if employees in those particular units decide to go on strike," said Sen. Ben Gaeth, R-1 Defiance.

"The chief of police is going to be the only one around," said the sponsor of the amendment, Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati. After failing once, the amendment passed 18-15 on a reconsideration vote, despite vigorous opposition from the Fraternal Order of Police.

Lobbying Halts Curbs On Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intense lobbying is halting efforts in Congress to pass measures outlawing "unfair and deceptive practices" by such nonprofit groups as schools and charities, sources say.

The Federal Trade Commission, which already has authority over the trade practices of profit-making businesses, asked Congress this year for jurisdiction over nonprofit groups.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk told one hearing that nonprofit groups are responsible for "very substantial fraud" and other practices which would be illegal if committed by profit-making companies.

But provisions to meet Pertschuk's request were dropped from legislation dealing with the FTC by committees in both houses of Congress. The decisions followed extensive lobbying by educational and other nonprofit groups, House and Senate sources said Wednesday.

Sources said groups working against the proposals included the United Way of America, the Catholic Conference, universities and medical organizations, officials said.

"The lobbying was intense," said one Capitol Hill source, adding, "There's no question that the nonprofits ought to have been covered."

The new FTC account could have been used against "fly-by-night" schools and other nonprofit organizations using deceptive advertising.

President Seeks Income Tax Audit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, calling his tax audit a good thing, is suggesting that Internal Revenue Service accountants go over his income tax returns every year he's in the White House.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, also the target of an IRS audit, hasn't said whether he wants the same annual review. Asked whether the vice president agrees with Carter, spokesman Al Eisele said:

"I really don't know."

For Carter, annual reviews hardly would be new.

"They've inventoried me; they've checked my income taxes I think almost every year the last 10 years," the President told reporters Wednesday on his way to dinner at Budget Director Bert Lance's home.

"But I think it's a good thing to do," Carter said. "We're suggesting they do it every year I'm in office."

Carter didn't make it clear whether the IRS conducted a full-scale audit each time it checked one of his returns. Nor did he reveal any IRS findings. But White House Deputy Press Secretary Rex Granum said Carter authorized him to say an annual, full-scale audit would be welcome as long as Carter is President.

In reply to queries about published reports that the IRS is auditing Carter's 1975 income tax return, White House spokesmen made what Press Secretary Jody Powell conceded were "mistakes and unwarranted assumptions" Wednesday afternoon as they stumbled through a confusing, 2 1/2-hour explanation.

The briefing was interrupted by an hour and a quarter recess so the spokesmen could check their facts.

Reports Of Amin In London False

LONDON (AP) — An apparently false Ugandan report that President Idi Amin had arrived in London for the Commonwealth conference heightened suspicions today that the burly black dictator's trip was a huge hoax.

Radio Uganda announced Amin's arrival in London and said he was demanding "to be carried shoulder-high by the British for several miles" as "part of the Field Marshal's celebrations of the British Queen's Silver Jubilee."

A Foreign Office spokesman said the government had no word of Amin's arrival. "If he had landed legally in this country, I would know," the spokesman added.

Radio Uganda reported Tuesday that Amin had left for London despite word from Prime Minister James Callaghan and other British leaders that he was not wanted at the Commonwealth meeting or the simultaneous celebrations of Queen Elizabeth's 25 years on the throne.

Later Tuesday, the Ugandan radio said Amin had stopped in an Arab country, which was assumed to be Libya. The broadcast said he would go on to France, West Germany or Ireland and would reach England

Granum said at first that the IRS began the audit because the President's accountant, Robert Perry of Americus, Ga., a town near the Carter's hometown of Plains, invited the agency on the President's behalf to "satisfy itself" of the accuracy of Carter's returns.

But Powell said after the recess that Perry, lawyer Harvey Hill of Atlanta, who has been Carter's attorney on occasion since 1968, and Robert Lipshutz, the President's White House counsel, cannot agree on whether they or the IRS brought up checking Carter's past returns.

"A statement that we brought them up first and brought it (the audit) on, I'm not prepared to make," Powell said.

Despite the confusion, this became clear:

—The audit began early this year, is still going on and the IRS has not told Carter why agents started it or what specific thing about his 1975 return caught their eye.

—Carter is confident the audit will validate his return.

He "feels he has no problems," Granum said. Powell added that there has been no allegation of any impropriety or illegality.

"As soon as this audit is complete, we will make the results of it available to you and everybody else," Powell said.

—Carter does not think the audit is politically motivated.

"There is no feeling on our part that it is," Granum said. And Powell added: "There is no basis for us to claim or hint or imply that the thing was politically motivated."

Wednesday or Thursday by boat. But there has been no report of his leaving Libya or any other Arab country, and he has not been sighted in Europe.

The Nairobi Daily Nation, the leading newspaper in Kenya, Uganda's eastern neighbor, said a Ugandan army major told it the 6-foot-4, 250-pound president had been seen in the Kampala area after the government radio said he had left for London. The major was not identified.

There was growing speculation that all the official reports of Amin's trip were part of a hoax intended to twist the tail of the British lion. But British officials were taking a relaxed attitude that extended also to the announcement Wednesday that the Ugandan government had barred the 300 British residents of Uganda from leaving the country until Amin returned from London.

"I don't take these reports very seriously and I wish you would not either," Prime Minister James Callaghan told reporters.

"Why don't we all keep cool about this and not give President Amin the chance to think he is putting the wind up us?" he said. "He may have put the wind up you, but he hasn't put the wind up me."

Girl, 17, Murdered; Man Sought

BOSTON (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Judy Belfrey was a high school junior who lived in a sunny suburban world of achievement and popularity. She died in a shabby Boston Back Bay apartment, and police are looking for her killer.

"She was beautiful, terrific," said David Levington, superintendent of Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School. "She was a fine student, popular with friends. I think she was on the field hockey team. She just came back from a bike tour of Cape Cod. We're totally distraught."

"It doesn't make any sense for us to believe," Levington said of the circumstances of her death.

Judy's badly beaten body, fully clothed, was found by her roommate in an apartment they shared, about a mile from the "Combat Zone," Boston's adult entertainment district of topless bars, X-rated movies and pornographic book stores.

Two hours before, she had been in a Combat Zone bar.

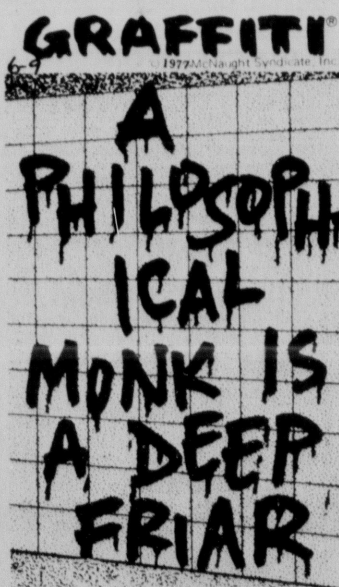

"She was last seen Tuesday night in a lounge and seen leaving there with a man," Detective Robert Hudson said Wednesday. "Look, she was a 17-year-old high school girl learning about the city."

Police described the man as being in his 40s and wearing a red blazer and blue slacks.

Officers said they had a suspect in mind, but Hudson declined to divulge any details.

Police said Miss Belfrey had shared the apartment for less than two weeks with Carol MacDonald, 21, who is unemployed.

Judy had come to Boston from Sudbury, her hometown 17 miles away, because of a school program, Levington said. Her father Charles works as a carpenter in Sudbury.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The words these kids can spel at the Nashional Speling Bee cud make groan peepel wiew.

One of the 12-year-olds making it into today's final rounds sailed through equivocate, balbriggan, ensowathe and osteosarcoma. Another of the 26 survivors of Wednesday's opening rounds went through quarantine, panegyric, aquanaut and anaphylaxis.

It was a tough first day even for the pre-teens and 13-and 14-year-olds who had gotten to the 50th National Spelling Bee by surviving competition from an estimated eight million others.

A record field of 94 started, and 17 girls and nine boys were still around for more today after seven rounds and 536 words.

The spelling bee organizers compile all manner of statistics: "The average number of children in the family of a '77 finalist is 3.2. The average family size last year was 3.4 ... It required a total of 525 words to decide the '76 competition ... Sponsoring newspapers in this year's spelling bee represent 37 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands."

Missing from that litany (one of Wednesday's words) is the pressure, mounting with each round, and the barely concealed disappointment and self-reproach when a bell signals a misspelled word and elimination.

At what other event does audience applause go mostly to the losers?

These were some of the scenes Wednesday:

—Jana Schroeder of Vandalia, Ohio, legally blind from birth, walking confidently and unaided to the microphone at center stage five times to spell correctly quilt, tepid, granule, cicada and woofer. But then, in the sixth round, she had "bummer" as "bumber." At that moment, she was everybody's disappointed 14-year-old.

—Stephen Glasgow, 13, from Circleville, Ohio, getting the bell for spelling "symbiosis" as "symbiois" only to get a reprieve when the judges ruled the official pronouncer had mispronounced the word to include the offending "i" syllable. Wide grins in the room.

—Theresa Walla of Lewistown, Mont., six rounds behind her, beginning "flexuosity" with "fleu" and walking off with a disgusted "oh, shoot."

—Lyndon Bond of Hartwell, Ga., so careful in rounds one through four that he hesitated four seconds between each letter, asking the pronouncer a dozen times to repeat "phlegm." When he finally spelled "phlam" and was thrown out, Lyndon snarled at the pronouncer: "I thought you said phlam!"

Finding The Unusual Woman's Livelihood

CHICAGO (AP) — Ellen Levine wasn't the least nonplussed when someone called her recently and asked her to find a rickshaw. She didn't bat an eyelash when someone else wanted a windshield frame for a 1932 Ford. She found both items.

When a third person called and wanted to rent a sheep "for a party" Ms. Levine said "can do" — pausing only to make sure that the animal would be humanely treated.

Ms. Levine, a former medical technician, has been in business for herself since January as the founder, proprietor and sole fulltime employee of Dial-A-Maven, a service for finding the unfindable.

A maven, for those who know no Yiddish, is a connoisseur, an adviser and a general know-it-all on a particular subject.

Dial-A-Maven is for the man who can't remember the words to the song that's been running through his head, the collector who wants animal figurines carved of Russian malachite, or the lady who wants to find an acupuncturist or an obscure Hawaiian bath oil.

Ms. Levine finds those things and just about anything else, as long as it's legal. She now handles from 30 to 60 requests a week.

In filling the requests, Ms. Levine relies on telephone and business directories, research facilities and an ever-widening network of personal contacts. She charges a base fee of $25 for putting buyer and seller in contact, plus expenses such as long-distance telephone calls and extra time for especially hard-to-find items.

Her most common requests, she says, are for rare books, old opera recordings and pre-Elvis Presley rock-and-roll records. She also gets a lot of requests for antiques and decor items.

Camera crews shooting advertising layouts are some of Dial-A-Maven's most faithful customers. Ms. Levine has arranged for them to rent such items as a gazebo, a horse-drawn milk wagon and a crank-operated washing machine.

Some of the requests are for services. A woman recently sought — and got — a job on a river barge, and Ms. Levine is currently dicker with several farmers to find a country home for a too-large city dog.

Perhaps the most unusual recent request came from a transplanted New Yorker who was outraged to find that Nathan's Famous hot dogs were unobtainable in Chicago.

The man demanded to know why, and asked for an outline of Nathan's entire distribution system as well as a list of cities other than New York where the hot dogs were available. Dial-A-Maven found the information for him.

The client said he was getting tired of making the 1,800-mile round trip to New York's Coney Island every time he wanted to lay in a supply.

ROUNDTOWN

THE Ted Lewis Museum will be open each Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

HOT dogs head the menu for the Senior Food and Fellowship picnic lunch scheduled Monday at Shelter House 1, Ted Lewis Park.

Other menu items include baked beans, tossed salad, fruit salad, and beverage.

Persons 60 and over may attend the picnic. Transportation will be provided to and from the park, and reservations and rides may be arranged by calling 474-8617.

and allow a rebate of up to $500 for buyers of fuel-efficient models.

The tax and rebate would be based on the fuel-efficiency standards already in the law. These standards require each manufacturer to produce a fleet of passenger cars that averages 18 miles per gallon for 1978 models, 19 mpg in 1979 and 27.5 mpg by 1985.

Current law already sets a penalty on the manufacturer — which would be paid ultimately by the purchaser — of $50 for each mile per gallon the fleet falls below the standard. And the penalty would be paid for every car made by that company — not just the ones that did not meet the standard.

If, for example, a company fleet of two million cars averaged only 18 mpg in 1979, rather than the 19 mpg standard, that firm would be penalized $100 million.

General Motors says it can meet the 1978 standard; Chrysler and Ford are not sure. Committee members who favor the gas-guzzler tax are trying to modify Carter's proposals in a way that will not reduce the competitive position of any of the three large manufacturers.

Assembly Split On Bargaining Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Organized labor has a new edge in a 30-year struggle to repeal a law barring strikes by public employees.

But a second priority of labor—to provide job protection for teachers—has been blocked.

When the votes were counted Wednesday, the labor movement could show only mixed results for its heavy investment last year in Democratic candidates.

"We've got a good bill in the Senate and we think we better be satisfied with it," said Ohio AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Warren J. Smith after the Senate approved collective bargaining for public employees.

The straight party line 21-12 vote with unanimous Republican opposition sent the bill to the House where minority party members and employer groups will wage a renewed struggle to defeat it, or at least water it down.

The roll call on the Senate floor came just minutes after the House, in a surprise move, sent back to committee a bill that would establish due process, tenure and evaluation procedures for public school teachers.

John Hall, lobbyist for the Ohio Education Association, representing more than 80,000 teachers, refused to concede defeat.

"I look on what happened in the House as positive," Hall said. "We now know who we've got to talk to."

The 49-46 vote to refer the bill to the Rules Committee indicated the OEA had better talk to at least 14 state representatives. A bare 50 vote majority probably wouldn't be enough, since Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed a similar measure last year and 60 votes are required to override a veto.

Rhodes also vetoed collective bargaining in the previous legislative session, his resistance to such key union issues was a major factor labor's determination to elect a veto-proof Democratic majority.

The collective bargaining bill approved by the Senate would grant nearly 500,000 state, county and municipal workers express legal authority to join unions, bargain collectively and, as a last resort, walk the picket line.

Many public employees already belong to unions which call strikes, but under the Ferguson Act employer can shortcircuit a walk out through a court injunction.

Two key amendments were added to the legislation, sponsored by Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown.

One mandated that patrolmen and supervisors (superior officers) in police departments must belong to separate bargaining units to prevent any strike that might threaten the health and safety of a city.

"I would like to know who's going to run the ship in times of disaster, if employees in those particular units decide to go on strike," said Sen. Ben Gaeth, R-1 Defiance.

"The chief of police is going to be the only one around," said the sponsor of the amendment, Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati. After failing once, the amendment passed 18-15 on a reconsideration vote, despite vigorous opposition from the Fraternal Order of Police.

Lobbying Halts Curbs On Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intense lobbying is halting efforts in Congress to pass measures outlawing "unfair and deceptive practices" by such nonprofit groups as schools and charities, sources say.

The Federal Trade Commission, which already has authority over the trade practices of profit-making businesses, asked Congress this year for jurisdiction over nonprofit groups.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk told one hearing that nonprofit groups are responsible for "very substantial fraud" and other practices which would be illegal if committed by profit-making companies.

But provisions to meet Pertschuk's request were dropped from legislation dealing with the FTC by committees in both houses of Congress. The decisions followed extensive lobbying by educational and other nonprofit groups. House and Senate sources said Wednesday.

Sources said groups working against the proposals included the United Way of America, the Catholic Conference, universities and medical organizations, officials said.

"The lobbying was intense," said one Capitol Hill source, adding, "There's no question that the nonprofits ought to have been covered."

The new FTC authority could have been used against "fly-by-night" schools and other nonprofit organizations using deceptive advertising.

Losers Dropping Out Of Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Paola, an eighth grader from Glenshaw, Pa., misspelled three words but then won the 50th National Spelling Bee by correctly spelling "cambist," a word he had never heard before.

With the field of 94 reduced to two finalists, John emerged the winner by correctly spelling "sesquipedalian" after runnerup Joan O'Leary misspelled it. He then followed with cambist, a word dealing with tables of exchange.

states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Missing from that litany (one of Wednesday's words) is the pressure, mounting with each round, and the barely concealed disappointment and self-reproach when a bell signals a misspelled word and elimination.

At what other event does audience applause go mostly to the losers?

These were some of the scenes Wednesday:

—Jana Schroeder of Vandalia, Ohio, legally blind from birth, walking confidently and unaided to the microphone at center stage five times to spell correctly quilt, tepid, granule, cicada and woofer. But then, in the sixth round, she had "bummer" as "bumber." At that moment, she was everybody's disappointed 14-year-old.

—Stephen Glasgow, 13, from Circleville, Ohio, getting the bell for spelling "symbiosis" as "symbiosis" only to get a reprieve when the judges ruled the official pronouncer had mispronounced the word to include the offending "i" syllable. Wide grins in the room.

—Theresa Walla of Lewistown, Mont., six rounds behind her, beginning "flexusosity" with "fleu" and walking off with a disgusted "oh, shoot."

—Lyndon Bond of Hartwell, Ga., so careful in rounds one through four that he hesitated four seconds between each letter, asking the pronouncer a dozen times to repeat "phlegm." When he finally spelled "phlam" and was thrown out, Lyndon snarled at the pronouncer: "I thought you said phlam!"

Finding The Unusual Woman's Livelihood

CHICAGO (AP) — Ellen Levine wasn't the least nonplussed when someone called her recently and asked her to find a rickshaw. She didn't bat an eyelash when someone else wanted a windshield frame for a 1932 Ford. She found both items.

When a third person called and wanted to rent a sheep "for a party" Ms. Levine said "can do" — pausing only to make sure that the animal would be humanely treated.

Ms. Levine, a former medical technician, has been in business for herself since January as the founder, proprietor and sole fulltime employee of Dial-A-Maven, a service for finding the unfindable.

A maven, for those who know no Yiddish, is a connoisseur, an adviser and a general know-it-all on a particular subject.

Dial-A-Maven is for the man who can't remember the words to the song that's been running through his head, the collector who wants animal figurines carved of Russian malachite, or the lady who wants to find an acupuncturist or an obscure Hawaiian bath oil.

Ms. Levine finds those things and just about anything else, as long as it's legal. She now handles from 30 to 50 requests a week.

In filling the requests, Ms. Levine relies on telephone and business directories, research facilities and an ever-widening network of personal contacts. She charges a base fee of $25 for putting buyer and seller in contact, plus expenses such as long-distance telephone calls and extra time for especially hard-to-find items.

Her most common requests, she says, are for rare books, old opera recordings and pre-Elvis Presley rock-and-roll records. She also gets a lot of requests for antiques and decor items.

Camera crews shooting advertising layouts are some of Dial-A-Maven's most faithful customers. Ms. Levine has arranged for them to rent such items as a gazebo, a horse-drawn milk wagon and a crank-operated washing machine.

Some of the requests are for services. A woman recently sought — and got — a job on a river barge, and Ms. Levine is currently dickering with several farmers to find a country home for a too-large city dog.

Perhaps the most unusual recent request came from a transplanted New Yorker who was outraged to find that Nathan's Famous hot dogs were unobtainable in Chicago.

The man demanded to know why, and asked for an outline of Nathan's entire distribution system as well as a list of cities other than New York where the hot dogs were available. Dial-A-Maven found the information for him.

The client said he was getting tired of making the 1,800-mile round trip to New York's Coney Island every time he wanted to lay in a supply.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market was mixed today in a pause after its rally of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down more than a point in early trading.

But gainers held a small edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said that the Dow had moved into an area where many chart-watching analysts expected it to meet with resistance.

They also noted a tendency among traders to hold back awaiting the decision by New York's Citibank Friday morning on whether to raise its prime lending rate to 7 per cent from the present 6 1/2.

Today's prices included General Motors, up 1/4 at 67 1/2; Exxon off 1/4 at 50 1/4; Simplicity Pattern, steady at 13, and Beatrice Foods, up 1/4 at 23 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.32 to 912.99, bringing its advance for the past two days to 9.92 points.

Gainers led losers by a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume increased to 22.20 million shares from 21.11 million Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .28 to 53.65, and the American Stock Exchange market value index added .42 to 113.76.

Two Teens Injured In Accident

Two Ashville teens were injured in a single car accident during Wednesday's rain storm.

Michelle A. Barr, 18, 163 Powell St., Ashville, driver of the car, suffered a contusion to her head and a laceration to her finger.

A passenger, Lisa A Bowman, 15, 112 Powell St., suffered a laceration to her left forearm.

Both girls were treated by the Harrison Twp. Emergency Squad and by personnel at Berger Hospital. They were released following treatment.

Two other passengers in the car were not hurt. They are Robin L. Glick, 14, 91 East St., Ashville, and Chris A. McManes, 15, 268 Long St., Ashville.

The accident was investigated by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Fite, who noted that Wednesday night rain made the paved surface slippery.

The accident occurred 7:55 p.m. on the Walnut Creek Pike, 50 feet north of the Bell Station Road intersection.

Miss Barr was driving north and attempting to negotiate a slight curve to the left when the vehicle went off the right side. Miss Barr apparently oversteered while trying to correct the problem and went off the left side, where the vehicle hit a road sign and rolled to its top.

Moluccans Warned To Free Hostages

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government was sending word today to South Moluccan terrorists holding 55 hostages in a train and a schoolhouse in northern Holland to free their captives or face dangerous consequences.

A government spokesman said it was "out of the question" that the twin sieges, which began 17 days ago, will be allowed to continue much longer.

Officials are becoming increasingly worried about the condition of the hostages, especially the 51 persons held aboard the commuter train 12 miles north of Assen.

Cardiologist Jakob Nieveen said

they may develop heart problems due to the stress, the lack of exercise and the uncomfortable conditions. More than half of them are over 40.

Dr. Nieveen made the comment after examining Theo J. van Hattem, 46, who was freed from the train Wednesday after becoming ill. Doctors said he might have had a slight heart attack.

Premier Joop den Uyl and his cabinet were hoping mediators Josina Soumokil and Hassan Tan could convince the terrorists their position is hopeless, both "for their demands and for the political aims they have in view," a Justice Ministry spokesman said.

The mediators, elders in the 40,000-member South Moluccan community in The Netherlands, talked for nearly six hours with the gunmen aboard the train Saturday but failed to make any progress.

Eight to ten terrorists are believed to be on the train and four others are holding four teachers at the elementary school in nearby Bovensmilde.

Dutch officials have said they have several plans for an attack on the train should mediation fail. Some 1,200 troops and hundreds of police are surrounding the train, and about 100 Dutch marines are dug in about 100 yards away from it.

Troops and police also are around the schoolhouse. When the siege began, 105 children were also taken hostage, but they were released after four days along with one teacher.

The two gangs, which struck simultaneously, are demanding passage out of the country for themselves and 21 other South Moluccans held in Dutch jails for previous terrorism and sabotage. The terror campaign is aimed at forcing the Dutch government to support the South Moluccan community's demand for independence from Indonesia for their native islands, which were part of the prewar Dutch East Indies.

CIRCLEVILLE and Pickaway County came out as big winners in the race for Public Works money, according to U.S. Senator John Glenn.

The city will receive $652,000 and the county will get $130,000 of the $151 million allocated for Ohio.

The money must be used to fund projects outlined in applications, according to Greg Bigam of the commissioners office.

There were 17 applications from within the county, including construction projects in villages and townships.

Only 3 by the commissioners were considered, however, he said.

City projects include a $900,000 one for street reconstruction and a $2 million one for water and sewer line extension.

County projects include a $660,000 proposed addition to the courthouse, an $800,000 project for Mental Health and Retardation programs, and $189,000 project for improvements at the airport.

OK Legislation For Education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Education and Health Committee has approved legislation adding $54 million for primary and secondary education to the proposed state budget.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-25 Cleveland, was sent to the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday for inclusion in a budget language bill, specifying how state money should be spent over the next two years.

Remap Bill Hearings Opened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats have opened hearings on a controversial bill to redraw congressional district lines to give their candidate a better advantage with voters in 1978.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, the sponsor, said Wednesday that Republicans got only 49 per cent of the total vote statewide for Congress in 1974 and yet held a 15-0 advantage in the Ohio delegation. Democrats got 47 per cent of the vote.

In 1976, Miss Valiquette said, the Republican congressional candidates polled 51 per cent of the total vote, while clinging to a 13-10 edge.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, however, said that the 21-12 Democratic edge in the state Senate was built in part on a total vote last year in which Democrats picked up about 50 per cent of the total vote. About half the Senate seats were contested in November.

"Why now?" Van Meter asked, noting that another remap plan would be necessary after the current 1980 census. The present map was drawn by a Republican-controlled legislature in 1972.

"It is the prerogative of the state legislature to keep a watchful eye," Miss Valiquette said. "Obviously, there are philosophical differences. I do believe there should be a balance. It isn't gerrymandering every time a (boundary) line moves."

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, chairman of the Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee, scheduled opposition committee hearings for next week.

Compromise Sought On Emissions Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate seems ready to give American Motors a special delay in meeting clean air rules, but remains deeply divided over how long an extension to hand the rest of the industry.

A proposal to give AMC two years longer than its three larger U.S. competitors to comply with proposed auto-exhaust standards for nitrogen oxide emissions has the backing of Senate sponsors of a clean air bill.

Formal approval was expected today as the Senate resumes debate on a new set of clean air rules.

Nitrogen oxides are the pollutants most difficult to remove from auto exhaust. Meeting the proposed new standards requires special pollution-control equipment that AMC claims it cannot develop on its own.

Senate votes also are expected on a proposed new timetable for all auto pollutants, with industry forces lobbying for a House-passed amendment calling for a longer delay and looser standards than those contained in the Senate bill.

It was unclear which side had the upper hand as debate on the bill continued, however.

The Senate legislation would postpone a scheduled tightening of the pollution standards — now set to take effect later this year on 1978 models — until 1979 models, with the tougher standards to be fully phased in by 1980.

Under the AMC amendment, American Motors would have until 1982 to meet the nitrogen oxide standards, but would have to comply with the standards for two other exhaust pollutants, carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons, at the same time as the other automakers.

Legislation passed by the House and backed by the auto industry would block any new standards from taking effect until 1980 models and would then impose looser standards for carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions than those in the Senate bill.

Driver Strikes Parked Car

Circleville Police investigated a two car injury accident at 11:06 p.m. Wednesday on N. Court St.

According to the report, Robert H. Hawks, 36, Tagg Motel, was south-bound on N. Court St., when he struck a parked car in front of 475 N. Court St. The parked car belonged to Fred J. Davis, 354 E. Mound St.

The impact shoved the Davis auto approximately 29 feet before it struck a tree with its right front fender.

Hawks was taken to the Berger Hospital Emergency Room by the Circleville Emergency Medical Squad, where he was admitted for treatment of contusions, abrasions, and possible broken ribs.

Ptl. K. C. Gaul and Ptl. Mike Eberhard cited Hawks for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence.

Eye Water Shortages

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes on Wednesday ordered the Department of Natural Resources to report to him by June 15 on ways to alleviate water shortages throughout Ohio.

"Industries, municipalities, agriculture and private domestic users in several Ohio communities are experiencing water supply problems," Rhodes said.

Among areas experiencing shortages are the Dayton area where a sprinkling ban has been imposed, Brady Lake near Kent-Ravenna, Hubbard, Bucyrus, Blanchester, Wilmington and Cardington.

Groundwater levels throughout the state ranged from 2 to 4 feet below normal for May.

Natural resources chief Robert W. Teater said he anticipates no problem in meeting Rhodes' deadline for a water plan.

Brokers said that the Dow had moved into an area where many chart-watching analysts expected it to meet with resistance.

They also noted a tendency among traders to hold back awaiting the decision by New York's Citibank Friday morning on whether to raise its prime lending rate to 7 per cent from the present 6 1/2.

Today's prices included General Motors, up 1/4 at 67 1/2; Exxon off 1/4 at 50 1/4; Simplicity Pattern, steady at 13, and Beatrice Foods, up 1/4 at 23 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.32 to 912.99, bringing its advance for the past two days to 9.92 points.

Gainers led losers by a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume increased to 22.20 million shares from 21.11 million Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .28 to 53.65, and the American Stock Exchange market value index added .42 to 113.76.

Two Teens Injured In Accident

Two Ashville teens were injured in a single car accident during Wednesday's rain storm.

Michelle A. Barr, 18, 163 Powell St., Ashville, driver of the car, suffered a contusion to her head and a laceration to her finger.

A passenger, Lisa A Bowman, 15, 112 Powell St., suffered a laceration to her left forearm.

Both girls were treated by the Harrison Twp. Emergency Squad and by personnel at Berger Hospital. They were released following treatment.

Two other passengers in the car were not hurt. They are Robin L. Glick, 14, 91 East St., Ashville, and Chris A. McManes, 15, 268 Long St., Ashville.

The accident was investigated by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Fite, who noted that Wednesday night rain made the paved surface slippery.

The accident occurred 7:55 p.m. on the Walnut Creek Pike, 50 feet north of the Bell Station Road intersection.

Miss Barr was driving north and attempting to negotiate a slight curve to the left when the vehicle went off the right side. Miss Barr apparently oversteered while trying to correct the problem and went off the left side, where the vehicle hit a road sign and rolled to its top.

Moluccans Warned To Free Hostages

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government was sending word today to South Moluccan terrorists holding 55 hostages in a train and a schoolhouse in northern Holland to free their captives or face dangerous consequences.

A government spokesman said it was "out of the question" that the twin sieges, which began 17 days ago, will be allowed to continue much longer.

Officials are becoming increasingly worried about the condition of the hostages, especially the 51 persons held aboard the commuter train 12 miles north of Assen.

Cardiologist Jakob Nieveen said

they may develop heart problems due to the stress, the lack of exercise and the uncomfortable conditions. More than half of them are over 40.

Dr. Nieveen made the comment after examining Theo J. van Hattem, 46, who was freed from the train Wednesday after becoming ill. Doctors said he might have had a slight heart attack.

Premier Joop den Uyl and his cabinet were hoping mediators Josina Soumokil and Hassan Tan could convince the terrorists their position is hopeless, both "for their demands and for the political aims they have in view," a Justice Ministry spokesman said.

The mediators, elders in the 40,000-member South Moluccan community in The Netherlands, talked for nearly six hours with the gunmen aboard the train Saturday but failed to make any progress.

Eight to ten terrorists are believed to be on the train and four others are holding four teachers at the elementary school in nearby Bovensmilde.

Dutch officials have said they have several plans for an attack on the train should mediation fail. Some 1,200 troops and hundreds of police are surrounding the train, and about 100 Dutch marines are dug in about 100 yards away from it.

Troops and police also are around the schoolhouse. When the siege began, 105 children were also taken hostage, but they were released after four days along with one teacher.

The two gangs, which struck simultaneously, are demanding passage out of the country for themselves and 21 other South Moluccans held in Dutch jails for previous terrorism and sabotage. The terror campaign is aimed at forcing the Dutch government to support the South Moluccan community's demand for independence from Indonesia for their native islands, which were part of the prewar Dutch East Indies.

Tomorrow's schedule is Circleville, Logan Elm Village, Jefferson Addition, and Elsea Mobile Village.

The program had been suspended because of cold temperatures and rain.

CIRCLEVILLE and Pickaway County came out as big winners in the race for Public Works money, according to U.S. Senator John Glenn.

The city will receive $652,000 and the county will get $130,000 of the $151 million allocated for Ohio.

The money must be used to fund projects outlined in applications, according to Greg Bigam of the commissioners office.

There were 17 applications from within the county, including construction projects in villages and townships.

Only 3 by the commissioners were considered, however, he said.

City projects include a $900,000 one for street reconstruction and a $2 million one for water and sewer line extension.

County projects include a $660,000 proposed addition to the courthouse, an $800,000 project for Mental Health and Retardation programs, and $189,000 project for improvements at the airport.

OK Legislation For Education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Education and Health Committee has approved legislation adding $4 million for primary and secondary education to the proposed state budget.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-25 Cleveland, was sent to the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday for inclusion in a budget language bill, specifying how state money should be spent over the next two years.

Compromise Sought On Emissions Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate seems ready to give American Motors a special delay in meeting clean air rules, but remains deeply divided over how long an extension to hand the rest of the industry.

A proposal to give AMC two years longer than its three larger U.S. competitors to comply with proposed auto-exhaust standards for nitrogen oxide emissions has the backing of Senate sponsors of a clean air bill.

Formal approval was expected today as the Senate resumes debate on a new set of clean air rules.

Nitrogen oxides are the pollutants most difficult to remove from auto exhaust. Meeting the proposed new standards requires special pollution-control equipment that AMC claims it cannot develop on its own.

Senate votes also are expected on a proposed new timetable for all auto pollutants, with industry forces lobbying for a House-passed amendment calling for a longer delay and looser standards than those contained in the Senate bill.

It was unclear which side had the upper hand as debate on the bill continued, however.

The Senate legislation would postpone a scheduled tightening of the pollution standards — now set to take effect later this year on 1978 models — until 1979 models, with the tougher standards to be fully phased in by 1980.

Under the AMC amendment, American Motors would have until 1982 to meet the nitrogen oxide standards, but would have to comply with the standards for two other exhaust pollutants, carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons, at the same time as the other automakers.

Legislation passed by the House and backed by the auto industry would block any new standards from taking effect until 1980 models and would then impose looser standards for carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions than those in the Senate bill.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats have opened hearings on a controversial bill to redraw congressional district lines to give their candidate a better advantage with voters in 1978.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D11 Toledo, the sponsor, said Wednesday that Republicans got only 49 per cent of the total vote statewide for Congress in 1974 and yet held a 15-0 advantage in the Ohio delegation. Democrats got 47 per cent of the vote.

In 1976, Miss Valiquette said, the Republican congressional candidates polled 51 per cent of the total vote, while clinging to a 13-10 edge.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, however, said that the 21-12 Democratic edge in the state Senate was built in part on a total vote last year in which Democrats picked up about 50 per cent of the total vote. About half the Senate seats were contested in November.

"Why now?" Van Meter asked, noting that another redistricting plan would be necessary after the current 1980 census. The present map was drawn by a Republican-controlled legislature in 1972.

"It is the prerogative of the state legislature to keep a watchful eye," Miss Valiquette said. "Obviously, there are philosophical differences. I do believe there should be a balance. It isn't gerrymandering every time a (boundary) line moves."

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, chairman of the Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee, scheduled opposition committee hearings for next week.

Among areas experiencing shortages are the Dayton area where a sprinkling ban has been imposed, Brady Lake near Kent-Ravenna, Hubbard, Bucyrus, Blanchester, Wilmington and Cardington.

Groundwater levels throughout the state ranged from 2 to 4 feet below normal for May.

Natural resources chief Robert W. Teater said he anticipates no problem in meeting Rhodes' deadline for a water plan.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes on Wednesday ordered the Department of Natural Resources to report to him by June 15 on ways to alleviate water shortages throughout Ohio.

"Industries, municipalities, agriculture and private domestic users in several Ohio communities are experiencing water supply problems," Rhodes said.

Energy Certainty: Customers Will Pay More

NEW YORK (AP) — Government and industry officials agree that inflation will push utility bills higher in the next few years. But they disagree on what additional effect President Carter's energy program may have.

"Over the long term, there should be lower rates than there would have otherwise been. But they will be higher than they are today," says Robert I. Hanfling of the Federal Energy Administration.

Paul Wagner, a spokesman for the industry-supported Edison Electric Institute, sees things differently. He predicts higher electric bills because of the Carter program.

"The net effect we see is that bills will go up about 5 per cent (annually) beyond what they would have been," he says, predicting the increase would be in addition to an anticipated 7 per cent-a-year inflation rate.

According to government statistics, the annual electric bill for an average household increased from $200 before the Arab oil embargo in 1973 to $290 last year.

The institute, a research organization supported by utility companies producing 78 per cent of the nation's power, feels Carter's proposals to push the industry into converting from oil and gas to coal or nuclear power in the near future will be costly.

Discounting the effect of inflation, the institute estimates it will cost $50 billion to convert to coal the 155,000 megawatts of existing and planned oil and gas-fired electric plants expected to be in service in 1985.

The institute says the cost of conversion and addition of environmental-protecting equipment for all new coal plants would add $7 billion a year to the nation's electric bill by 1985, the target year in its study.

The trend away from oil and gas has dominated the industry in recent years, but industry spokesmen complain that Carter's plan, which begins levying penalty taxes on oil and gas in 1983, is trying to force the switch too quickly.

"The electric industry would face a huge financial burden to meet a total conversion from gas and oil use," says Paul Crawford, president of the institute.

In addition, the industry research group says Carter-endorsed environmental legislation, which has already begun to move through Congress, would require the addition of expensive and inefficient equipment that would add millions to the cost of building and operating new coal-fired plants.

FEA's Hanfling acknowledges industry would face increased capital costs to convert to coal and install environmental equipment, known as flue scrubbers, on all new plants. But he disagrees with the institute's cost projections.

Utilities should save because they will be paying lower fuel costs after they convert to coal, Hanfling said.

He also says they should realize some long-range savings on construction costs if the President's program is successful in lowering over-all energy consumption and reducing the number of expensive reserve generators needed to meet peak demand periods.

Hanfling and Wagner agree the wide-ranging presidential program is difficult to assess. Many of the proposals which Carter outlined in late April may see substantial changes or be killed in Congress.

Even in its proposed form, specific parts of the plan would affect various regions and individual customers differently. The energy plan takes a broad approach to changes in the utility field. It includes a proposed system of tax penalties combined with tax credits, aimed at getting utilities which now use natural gas or oil to switch existing plants to coal or build new coal-fired or nuclear power plants.

Areas of the country where utilities are heavily dependent on gas or imported oil — notably the Southwest, California and much of the East Coast — will have to pay more to switch to other energy sources than regions which already have substantial numbers of coal-fired or nuclear powered plants. Government experts note that costs in those areas also would rise substantially if they continued their dependence on current fuels.

In addition, the President's plan calls for state public service commissions to make a number of adjustments in rate schedules including the elimination of so called declining block rates under which some large energy users pay less as they use more gas or electricity.

That and other rate changes make it difficult to determine just how actual costs of energy will eventually be split among residential, commercial and industrial customers.

But there are some voluntary programs that could have direct effects on residential customers who elect to participate. They could help cut electric and heating bills but initially they will require an investment.

Carter's home energy conservation program, for instance, would require utilities to make loans for home insulation and other projects and recommend contractors to do the work.

The consumer could write off a portion of the cost on his taxes. But the interest on the loan would be about the same as a bank loan and would be paid back in installments listed on the customer's regular bill, according to a spokesman for the FEA.

The government estimates that a "typical" family of four paying $670 yearly for heating could save a $120 a year by insulating the attic.

A second voluntary participation program would require that lower rates be offered to consumers who elect to have electric service interrupted during times when power demands are the greatest. But the customer would have to pay the cost of a special meter that measures both the amount of electricity used and the time of day.

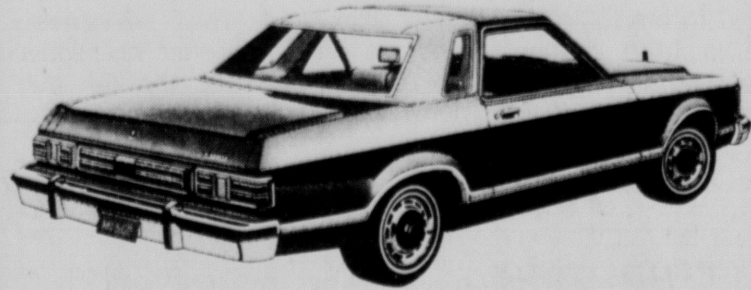

While a normal electric meter costs about $20, a meter with a time device runs $50 or $60, according to Robert Uhler of the Electric Power Research Institute.

The Palo Alto, Calif., organization

recently surveyed about 45 experimental utility programs that offered special time of day rates and found that customers saved "modest" amounts in some systems but scarcely at all in others. He says a consumer would have to use a relatively large amount of electricity to recover the additional metering cost under the Carter proposal.

Energy Certainty: Customers Will Pay More

NEW YORK (AP) — Government and industry officials agree that inflation will push utility bills higher in the next few years. But they disagree on what additional effect President Carter's energy program may have.

"Over the long term, there should be lower rates than there would have otherwise been. But they will be higher than they are today," says Robert I. Hanfling of the Federal Energy Administration.

Paul Wagner, a spokesman for the industry-supported Edison Electric Institute, sees things differently. He predicts higher electric bills because of the Carter program.

"The net effect we see is that bills will go up about 5 per cent (annually) beyond what they would have been," he says, predicting the increase would be in addition to an anticipated 7 per cent-a-year inflation rate.

According to government statistics, the annual electric bill for an average household increased from $200 before the Arab oil embargo in 1973 to $290 last year.

The institute, a research organization supported by utility companies producing 78 per cent of the nation's power, feels Carter's proposals to push the industry into converting from oil and gas to coal or nuclear power in the near future will be costly.

Discounting the effect of inflation, the institute estimates it will cost $50 billion to convert to coal the 155,000 megawatts of existing and planned oil and gas-fired electric plants expected to be in service in 1985.

The institute says the cost of conversion and addition of environmental-protecting equipment for all new coal plants would add $7 billion a year to the nation's electric bill by 1985, the target year in its study.

The trend away from oil and gas has dominated the industry in recent years, but industry spokesmen complain that Carter's plan, which begins levying penalty taxes on oil and gas in 1983, is trying to force the switch too quickly.

"The electric industry would face a huge financial burden to meet a total conversion from gas and oil use," says Paul Crawford, president of the institute.

In addition, the industry research group says Carter-endorsed environmental legislation, which has already begun to move through Congress, would require the addition of expensive and inefficient equipment that would add millions to the cost of building and operating new coal-fired plants.

FEA's Hanfling acknowledges industry would face increased capital costs to convert to coal and install environmental equipment, known as flue scrubbers, on all new plants. But he disagrees with the institute's cost projections.

Utilities should save because they will be paying lower fuel costs after they convert to coal, Hanfling said.

He also says they should realize some long-range savings on construction costs if the President's program is successful in lowering over-all energy consumption and reducing the number of expensive reserve generators needed to meet peak demand periods.

Hanfling and Wagner agree the wide-ranging presidential program is difficult to assess. Many of the proposals which Carter outlined in late April may see substantial changes or be killed in Congress.

Even in its proposed form, specific parts of the plan would affect various regions and individual customers differently.

The energy plan takes a broad approach to changes in the utility field. It includes a proposed system of tax penalties combined with tax credits, aimed at getting utilities which now use natural gas or oil to switch existing plants to coal or build new coal-fired or nuclear power plants.

Areas of the country where utilities are heavily dependent on gas or imported oil — notably the Southwest, California and much of the East Coast — will have to pay more to switch to other energy sources than regions which already have substantial numbers of coal-fired or nuclear powered plants. Government experts note that costs in those areas also would rise substantially if they continued their dependence on current fuels.

In addition, the President's plan calls for state public service commissions to make a number of adjustments in rate schedules including the elimination of so called declining block rates under which some large energy users pay less as they use more gas or electricity.

That and other rate changes make it difficult to determine just how actual costs of energy will eventually be split among residential, commercial and industrial customers.

But there are some voluntary programs that could have direct effects on residential customers who elect to participate. They could help cut electric and heating bills but initially they will require an investment.

Carter's home energy conservation program, for instance, would require utilities to make loans for home insulation and other projects and recommend contractors to do the work.

The consumer could write off a portion of the cost on his taxes. But the interest on the loan would be about the same as a bank loan and would be paid back in installments listed on the customer's regular bill, according to a spokesman for the FEA.

The government estimates that a "typical" family of four paying $670 yearly for heating could save a $120 a year by insulating the attic.

A second voluntary participation program would require that lower rates be offered to consumers who elect to have electric service interrupted during times when power demands are the greatest. But the customer would have to pay the cost of a special meter that measures both the amount of electricity used and the time of day.

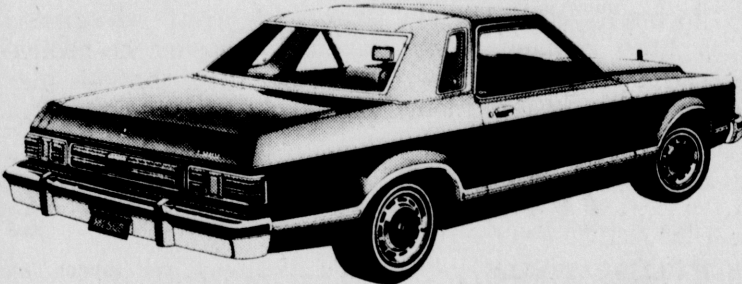

While a normal electric meter costs about $20, a meter with a time device runs $50 or $60, according to Robert Uhler of the Electric Power Research Institute.

The Palo Alto, Calif., organization

recently surveyed about 45 experimental utility programs that offered special time of day rates and found that customers saved "modest" amounts in some systems but scarcely at all in others. He says a consumer would have to use a relatively large amount of electricity to recover the additional metering cost under the Carter proposal.

Radiation Recognition

Man has learned much about the hazards of radiation since the nuclear age blossomed into full bloom, yet he continues to expose himself needlessly in many ways to the dangers of this silent attacker. Radiation exists in many natural forms, of course, and there is little danger from these sources. Man's indiscriminate uses of radiation pose the danger. A study made at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory a few years ago estimated that 94 per cent of all radiation from man-made sources in the United States was caused by medical radiation. It was proposed that diagnostic medical exposure be reduced by 90 per cent through more expert use of equipment and better judgment as to need. Medical practitioners have reduced use of x-rays and other radiation emitting procedures in response. Radiation is a valuable tool of the diagnostician. But today it is recognized that over-exposure can be more deadly than the ailment for which the patient is being treated.

Must Be Eating Right

By PHILLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — When the last Empress of China was aged 60, she looked barely 40. I recently met a Chinese gentleman with a cherubic, all but unlined face, who claimed to be 103. Take off even 25 years for a bit of oriental persiflage, and he still could have passed for 55.

You rarely see a bald Chinese. Or a fat one. Or one doubled over with arthritis. "They must be eating something right," said Mme. Irene Kuo, a New York restaurateur whose mandarin delicacies draw the crowds from Lincoln Center.

But it is not only what they eat that makes the Chinese different from occidentals, she said. "There are other secrets. In old China, for example, we had no Helena Rubinstein, so the ladies relied greatly on nature's products. For a cleanser, they used fresh, crumbled bean curd. For a facial, egg white slightly beaten and spread on the skin, left a few minutes and rinsed off." (Beauticians and dermatologists in Europe, then the U.S., discovered this technique a few centuries after the Chinese.)

"All the historical beauties," confided Mme. Kuo, "are known to have consumed, daily, much fish, walnuts, bone marrow, pine nuts, sesame seeds and lichees nuts."

"And ah, the baldness problem that many societies have. We almost never have it in China and ginger may possibly be the reason. If you take a piece of it, slice it, and rub it on the scalp, it is said to promote growth of hair. I would not deny that. Would you?"

"Ginger, which is a root, is remarkable in other ways. I use it in my own cooking every day, not only for its flavor, but because it is an essence of vitality. It has another surprising use: as a great hangover cure! Boil water, add some soy sauce and a few slices of ginger, then drink the brew. It will taste better with chicken broth rather than water, but with a hangover, locating the broth — or the sound of the can opening — may be too difficult to contemplate."

"To get the most from ginger, by the way, smash it with the side of a cleaver or knife, to open the pores."

The Chinese use food to prevent illness, as much as they take medicines to cure it. "This," smiled Mme. Kuo, "makes our medicine less than medicine, and our food more than food. You will see why, then, our drugstores more closely resemble groceries — and they are often bypassed in favor of the market."

"You would like to know some common recipes? Okay, then . . . For headaches we use lichees nuts or lotus seeds. You can buy them in many stores."

"For the common cold, here is one recipe which dates back to when there was no refrigeration: combine a scooped out grapefruit half with red tea, filling its inside. Allow to dry in the sun for a week in a net bag. Then cut off a slice, brew a long time with some tea, and drink it. It will make you perspire and bring out the cold. Or you can use scallions, leek, ginger, black bean and hot noodles — in combination or individually.

"In China, all human illnesses, as you know, are described as Ying and Yang in conflict. Ying is the cold force and negative. Yang is the positive force and hot. All food is divided into two general categories: those which heat the body, and those having cooling effects. We prefer not to eat against nature, but to be in harmony with it. Therefore, meals go by the season. In summer, do not eat things which generate heat in the body's system, and in winter consume the heavier things. I suppose that is obvious. But in the summer, with air-conditioning, it becomes a little bit confusing. . . people can eat the wrong things because they are cool, forgetting that ten minutes later they will walk outside and get hot."

Unholy Yang! Madame Kuo insisted that the Chinese are less beset by high blood pressure and heart trouble because of certain foods: liver, scallops, fresh water chestnut, persimmons, Chinese squash, jelly fish, sea slugs — and that magnificent sea vegetable, purple sea weed.

"My dear Phyllis, these are far more interesting than pills and injections, are they not?" she said. "Jelly fish is as crunchy as cucumbers, but purple seaweed happens to be my favorite, especially in soup. Sea slugs are so named because they are punch-happy, like boxers."

As for Ginseng tea, the costly but tranquilizing specialty of Chinese (and other) health stores, Madame Kuo called it the elixir of life. Ginseng can cure almost all your ills . . . at least momentarily.

About the last Empress, who looked barely 40 when she was 60. What was her secret?

"Well, that is no secret at all," said Madame, smiling graciously. "Everyone knows about the Empress. It was no secret to any woman in China that she started every day with a bowl of walnut tea. And she ended each night with a bowl of walnut tea. In between she used other 'teas' made with two parts (4 oz.) nuts to one part (2 oz.) rice, ground up raw and placed in a cheesecloth bag and allowed to simmer in a quart of water with two ounces of rock candy for about an hour."

"Her life was quite nutty, you might say, but perhaps you won't . . ."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am newly married. I am 28. I am taking a contraceptive pill. I smoke about a pack a day. I can't get it clear if the combination of the pill and tobacco is dangerous. My husband says "yes." My friends say "no." Now I want a doctor's opinion.

Mrs. G. P. K., Ohio

Dear Mrs. K.: My first reaction to your concern is that your husband and your friends, all well-meaning, are not an adequate substitute for the information you might have quickly obtained from your own doctor.

As a medical columnist, my function is to reinforce the message of your doctor, rather than to substitute for it. Recent reports indicate that the combination of the contraceptive pill and tobacco invites a rather severe risk of eventual heart attacks known as "myocardial infarctions."

A well-documented British study states, "Women between the ages of 40 and 44 who neither smoke nor take 'the pill' have a 7-in-100,000 chance of experiencing a fatal heart attack in any year."

"For non-smokers who are taking the pill, the risk rises to 10-in-100,000. And for smokers NOT taking the pill it's 16 per 100,000."

"But when smokers in this age group also take the pill their risk climbs to 50 per 100,000. And for heavy smokers (15 cigarettes a day or more the risk is 83 per 100,000."

Women in your age group, and in the thirties, show similar relative risks, even though the hazards are reduced by about one-third. Read and re-read these statistics. They are obvious and tell a dramatic story. The choice is yours. If you want to maintain good health and reduce the possibility of a heart attack, either stop smoking or stop using the pill. The combination is a treacherous one.

I heard that French people do not have virus infections because they drink so much wine. Is this true? Mr. M. M., Calif.

Dear Mr. M.: Only recently, a group of Canadian research workers reported that grapes, grape juice, raisins and wine all had the ability to kill certain viruses. However, they pointed out that grapes and grape juice proved stronger virus killers than wine. So there's no need to become a "wino!"

The scientists attribute this special capacity to the presence of tannic acid and phenols that are found in grapes. The exact anti-viral mechanism is not yet known.

Saccharin Evidence Mounting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by American scientists indicating saccharin may cause cancer in humans is raising new questions for congressmen trying to decide whether to delay a proposed ban on the marketing of the artificial sweetener.

Members of the panel of scientists told a Senate health subcommittee on Tuesday they concluded after new studies that saccharin is a weak carcinogen in laboratory animals. They testified that the artificial sweetener has the potential, so far unproved, to cause bladder cancer in humans.

The Food and Drug Administration, citing a Canadian study linking saccharin with bladder cancer in animals, announced plans earlier this year to ban the sale of saccharin except as an over-the-counter drug.

Congressional critics of the plan, spurred by emotional protests of constituents, suggested more evidence was needed before the government prohibited widespread marketing of the sugar substitute.

It asked the panel of American scientists, chosen by the congressional Office of Technology Assessment, to study the issue.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, chairman of the subcommittee, said he would decide by the end of the week whether to introduce legislation delaying the pending ban.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

It is well known that the Pickaway county Welfare Department Food Stamp Division, the Pickaway County Community Action Organization, and others are not able to consistently do everything that everybody thinks they ought to do.

We hear relatively little of the good job that these groups are doing with all of their restrictive regulations, limited budget etc. I believe it is time that we all look beyond their faults and shortcomings and observe that there are some dedicated persons involved and that they are doing a commendable job.

I am not an expert in this field and probably do not even qualify to adequately comment. However, I recently had occasion to visit the above Circleville facilities with a very needy family. I was pleasantly surprised to find that this family was treated very nicely as they were granted temporary assistance of food stamps and a small financial loan. All of this was completed without the expected embarrassment and detailed probing.

The family is presently a fine asset to our community. The father is now working regularly, the loan was quickly repaid and I would suppose that they have become just another statistic to those who helped in time of need.

I humbly wish to suggest that the Welfare Department, the Food Stamp Division and PICCA are continuing to do a commendable job. Let us recognize them for that which they are doing and not for that which they cannot do.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

Again this year I want to congratulate and compliment the people of Circleville and Pickaway County on another successful Easter Seal Campaign. It makes me very happy to report a response of nearly $11,000 this year to help provide physical restoration and rehabilitation for those in need.

Happiness is a good that is deserved by every person; all that are healthy and strong as well as all that are disabled by birth defects, illness or accident. Your giving to Easter Seals means help and happiness right now and right here in Pickaway County to hundreds of children and adults who need your support. The best way to be happy is to make others so and the precept and your giving on behalf of the handicapped.

I sincerely thank our dedicated local committee and friends who made this a campaign with such a happy result. Our Easter Seal child, Melissa Peters, and her parents put real truth in our efforts and we are grateful to them.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

We the Pickaway County Commissioners would like to answer ex-deputies Dewey and Huffman, since we were blamed for their resignations.

Both men were surely aware of what a deputy's job entailed, (hours, salary, etc.), when they were hired by Sheriff Radcliff. Our office has nothing to do with whom the Sheriff hires or fires. No elected official has any authority or jurisdiction over another elected officials' employees. Deputies' salaries, working hours, hiring, promotions, and suspensions are all under the complete control of Sheriff Radcliff.

Each Elected Official and Department submits a budget in June of the estimated expenses for the coming year. They are revised and finalized the first 10 days of the new year, after the Auditor has given the final figure on anticipated income. We have 59 budgets to work out and strive to have a working and just budget for each department. For the past few years we have been able to include in each budget a 5 per cent salary raise. It is up to each Department Head to distribute the raise to his or her employees as they see fit.

By working together, Sheriff Radcliff and the Commissioners have been able to capitalize on several state and federally funded programs to provide one of the best equipped and modern Sheriff's Departments in this region. Our office has always cooperated with the Sheriff's Department so that the people of Pickaway County can have the best protection and law enforcement possible. (The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is presently provided with 33 employees and 12 vehicles.)

Pickaway County furnishes all deputies with uniforms, equipment, pays all dry cleaning expenses, and has the most modern in radio equipment. They also receive vacation and holiday pay, Court time pay on their days off, and most recently (along with all other county employees) may receive Blue Cross, Blue Shield, Major Medical Hospital Insurance.

We maintain that we have cooperated with the Sheriff's Department, as well as all other Departments in budgeting and distributing County and Federal monies. Pickaway County is operating in the black on a balanced budget, and we will strive to keep it that way.

Hatch Act Change OK'd By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal bureaucrats could run in next year's local, state and congressional elections for the first time in almost four decades under legislation passed by the House to revise the Hatch Act.

The measure approved Tuesday, 244-164, also would remove prohibitions that keep millions of federal workers from raising campaign funds or working for candidates in partisan elections.

The bill, which President Carter backs, faces a rougher time in the Senate. The Government Operations Committee has jurisdiction over the measure, and the panel's chairman, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has said previously he opposes it and will not push for its passage this year unless the House approves it by a large margin.

The bill would affect 2.8 million federal workers, three times as many as there were when the political restraints were applied in 1939 in an effort to eliminate political arm-twisting of federal workers by their bosses.

Political observers expect that the federal bureaucracy would be a potent political force because of the workers' experience and interest in government.

Republicans fear that a majority of workers would participate in Democratic campaigns. Democrats accounted for 222 of the 244 votes in favor of the bill, while Republicans cast 117 of 164 votes against it.

"This bill would only give federal workers the same rights that every other citizen has," Rep. William Clay, the bill's sponsor, said in arguing for passage.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said, "2.8 million people are shut out of the political life of this country. It's time to change that."

An opponent, Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill., said the bill would politicize the federal bureaucracy. "We could be turning loose a monster," he warned.

Radiation exists in many natural forms, of course, and there is little danger from these sources. Man's indiscriminate uses of radiation pose the danger. A study made at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory a few years ago estimated that 94 per cent of all radiation from man-made sources in the United States was caused by medical radiation. It was proposed that diagnostic medical exposure be reduced by 90 per cent through more expert use of equipment and better judgment as to need. Medical practitioners have reduced use of x-rays and other radiation emitting procedures in response. Radiation is a valuable tool of the diagnostician. But today it is recognized that overexposure can be more deadly than the ailment for which the patient is being treated.

Must Be Eating Right

By PHILLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — When the last Empress of China was aged 60, she looked barely 40. I recently met a Chinese gentleman with a cherubic, all but unlined face, who claimed to be 103. Take off even 25 years for a bit of oriental persiflage, and he still could have passed for 55.

You rarely see a bald Chinese. Or a fat one. Or one doubled over with arthritis.

"They must be eating something right," said Mme. Irene Kuo, a New York restaurateur whose mandarin delicacies draw the crowds from Lincoln Center.

But it is not only what they eat that makes the Chinese different from occidentals, she said. "There are other secrets."

"In old China, for example, we had no Helena Rubinstein, so the ladies relied greatly on nature's products. For a cleanser, they used fresh, crumbled bean curd. For a facial, egg white slightly beaten and spread on the skin, left a few minutes and rinsed off." (Beauticians and dermatologists in Europe, then the U.S., discovered this technique a few centuries after the Chinese.)

"All the historical beauties," confided Mme. Kuo, "are known to have consumed, daily, much fish, walnuts, bone marrow, pine nuts, sesame seeds and lichees nuts."

"And ah, the baldness problem that many societies have. We almost never have it in China and ginger may possibly be the reason. If you take a piece of it, slice it, and rub it on the scalp, it is said to promote growth of hair. I would not deny that. Would you?"

"Ginger, which is a root, is remarkable in other ways. I use it in my own cooking every day, not only for its flavor, but because it is an essence of vitality. It has another surprising use: as a great hangover cure! Boil water, add some soy sauce and a few slices of ginger, then drink the brew." It will taste better with chicken broth rather than water, but with a hangover, locating the broth — or the sound of the can opening — may be too difficult to contemplate.

"To get the most from ginger, by the way, smash it with the side of a cleaver or knife, to open the pores."

The Chinese use food to prevent illness, as much as they take medicines to cure it. "This," smiled Mme. Kuo, "makes our medicine less than medicine, and our food more than food. You will see why, then, our drugstores more closely resemble groceries — and they are often bypassed in favor of the market."

"You would like to know some common recipes? Okay, then . . ."

"For headaches we use lichees nuts or lotus seeds. You can buy them in many stores."

"For the common cold, here is one recipe which dates back to when there was no refrigeration: combine a scooped out grapefruit half with red tea, filling its inside. Allow to dry in the sun for a week in a net bag. Then cut off a slice, brew a long time with some tea, and drink it. It will make you perspire and bring out the cold. Or you can use scallions, leek, ginger, black bean and hot noodles — in combination or individually."

"In China, all human illnesses, as you know, are described as Ying and Yang in conflict. Ying is the cold force and negative. Yang is the positive force and hot. All food is divided into two general categories: those which heat the body, and those having cooling effects. We prefer not to eat against nature, but to be in harmony with it. Therefore, meals go by the season. In summer, do not eat things which generate heat in the body's system, and in winter consume the heavier things. I suppose that is obvious. But in the summer, with air-conditioning, it becomes a little bit confusing . . . people can eat the wrong things because they are cool, forgetting that ten minutes later they will walk outside and get hot."

Unholy Yang! Madame Kuo insisted that the Chinese are less beset by high blood pressure and heart trouble because of certain foods: liver, scallops, fresh water chestnut, persimmons, Chinese squash, jelly fish, sea slugs — and that magnificent sea vegetable, purple sea weed.

"My dear Phyllis, these are far more interesting than pills and injections, are they not?" she said. "Jelly fish is as crunchy as cucumbers, but purple seaweed happens to be my favorite, especially in soup. Sea slugs are so named because they are punch-happy, like boxers."

As for Ginseng tea, the costly but tranquilizing specialty of Chinese (and other) health stores, Madame Kuo called it the elixir of life. Ginseng can cure almost all your ills . . . at least momentarily.

About the last Empress, who looked barely 40 when she was 60. What was her secret?

"Well, that is no secret at all," said Madame, smiling graciously. "Everyone knows about the Empress. It was no secret to any woman in China that she started every day with a bowl of walnut tea. And she ended each night with a bowl of walnut tea. In between she used other 'teas' made with two parts (4 oz.) nuts to one part (2 oz.) rice, ground up raw and placed in a cheesecloth bag and allowed to simmer in a quart of water with two ounces of rock candy for about an hour."

"Her life was quite nutty, you might say, but perhaps you won't . . ."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am newly married. I am 28. I am taking a contraceptive pill. I smoke about a pack a day. I can't get it clear if the combination of the pill and tobacco is dangerous. My husband says "yes." My friends say "no." Now I want a doctor's opinion.

Mrs. G. P. K., Ohio

Dear Mrs. K.: My first reaction to your concern is that your husband and your friends, all well-meaning, are not an adequate substitute for the information you might have quickly obtained from your own doctor.

As a medical columnist, my function is to reinforce the message of your doctor, rather than to substitute for it.

Recent reports indicate that the combination of the contraceptive pill and tobacco invites a rather severe risk of eventual heart attacks known as "myocardial infarctions."

A well-documented British study states, "Women between the ages of 40 and 44 who neither smoke nor take 'the pill' have a 7-in-100,000 chance of experiencing a fatal heart attack in any year."

"For non-smokers who are taking the pill, the risk rises to 10-in-100,000. And for smokers NOT taking the pill it's 16 per 100,000."

"But when smokers in this age group also take the pill their risk climbs to 50 per 100,000. And for heavy smokers (15 cigarettes a day or more the risk is 83 per 100,000."

Women in your age group, and in the thirties, show similar relative risks, even though the hazards are reduced by about one-third. Read and re-read these statistics. They are obvious and tell a dramatic story. The choice is yours. If you want to maintain good health and reduce the possibility of a heart attack, either stop smoking or stop using the pill. The combination is a treacherous one.

I heard that French people do not have virus infections because they drink so much wine. Is this true?
Mr. M. M., Calif.

Dear Mr. M.: Only recently, a group of Canadian research workers reported that grapes, grape juice, raisins and wine all had the ability to kill certain viruses. However, they pointed out that grapes and grape juice proved stronger virus killers than wine. So there's no need to become a "wino!"

The scientists attribute this special capacity to the presence of tannic acid and phenols that are found in grapes. The exact anti-viral mechanism is not yet known.

Saccharin Evidence Mounting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by American scientists indicating saccharin may cause cancer in humans is raising new questions for congressmen trying to decide whether to delay a proposed ban on the marketing of the artificial sweetener.

Members of the panel of scientists told a Senate health subcommittee on Tuesday they concluded after new studies that saccharin is a weak carcinogen in laboratory animals. They testified that the artificial sweetener has the potential, so far unproved, to cause bladder cancer in humans.

The Food and Drug Administration, citing a Canadian study linking saccharin with bladder cancer in animals, announced plans earlier this year to ban the sale of saccharin except as an over-the-counter drug.

Congressional critics of the plan, spurred by emotional protests of saccharin-using constituents, suggested more evidence was needed before the government prohibited widespread marketing of the sugar substitute.

It asked the panel of American scientists, chosen by the congressional Office of Technology Assessment, to study the issue.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, chairman of the subcommittee, said he would decide by the end of the week whether to introduce legislation delaying the pending ban.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

It is well known that the Pickaway county Welfare Department Food Stamp Division, the Pickaway County Community Action Organization, and others are not able to consistently do everything that everybody thinks they ought to do.

We hear relatively little of the good job that these groups are doing with all of their restrictive regulations, limited budget etc. I believe it is time that we all look beyond their faults and shortcomings and observe that there are some dedicated persons involved and that they are doing a commendable job.

I am not an expert in this field and probably do not even qualify to adequately comment. However, I recently had occasion to visit the above Circleville facilities with a very needy family. I was pleasantly surprised to find that this family was treated very nicely as they were granted temporary assistance of food stamps and a small financial loan. All of this was completed without the expected embarrassment and detailed probing.

The family is presently a fine asset to our community. The father is now working regularly, the loan was quickly repaid and I would suppose that they have become just another statistic to those who helped in time of need.

I humbly wish to suggest that the Welfare Department, the Food Stamp Division and PICCA are continuing to do a commendable job. Let us recognize them for that which they are doing and not for that which they cannot do.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

Again this year I want to congratulate and compliment the people of Circleville and Pickaway County on another successful Easter Seal Campaign. It makes me very happy to report a response of nearly $11,000 this year to help provide physical restoration and rehabilitation for those in need.

Happiness is a good that is deserved by every person; all that are disabled by birth defects, illness or accident. Your giving to Easter Seals means help and happiness right now and right here in Pickaway County to hundreds of children and adults who need your support. The best way to be happy is to make others so and the precept and your giving on behalf of the handicapped.

I sincerely thank our dedicated local committee and friends who made this a campaign with such a happy result. Our Easter Seal child, Melissa Peters, and her parents put real truth in our efforts and we are grateful to them.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

We the Pickaway County Commissioners would like to answer ex-deputies Dewey and Huffman, since we were blamed for their resignations.

Both men were surely aware of what a deputy's job entailed, (hours, salary, etc.), when they were hired by Sheriff Radcliff. Our office has nothing to do with whom the Sheriff hires or fires. No elected official has any authority or jurisdiction over another elected official's employees. Deputies' salaries, working hours, hiring, promotions, and suspensions are all under the complete control of Sheriff Radcliff.

Each Elected Official and Department submits a budget in June of the estimated expenses for the coming year. They are revised and finalized the first 10 days of the new year, after the Auditor has given the final figure on anticipated income. We have 59 budgets to work out and strive to have a working and just budget for each department. For the past few years we have been able to include in each budget a 5 per cent salary raise. It is up to each Department Head to distribute the raise to his or her employees as they see fit.

By working together, Sheriff Radcliff and the Commissioners have been able to capitalize on several state and federally funded programs to provide one of the best equipped and modern Sheriff's Departments in this region. Our office has always cooperated with the Sheriff's Department so that the people of Pickaway County can have the best protection and law enforcement possible. (The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is presently provided with 33 employees and 12 vehicles).

Pickaway County furnishes all deputies with uniforms, equipment, pays all dry cleaning expenses, and has the most modern in radio equipment. They also receive vacation and holiday pay, Court time pay on their days off, and most recently (along with all other county employees) may receive Blue Cross, Blue Shield, Major Medical Hospital Insurance.

We maintain that we have cooperated with the Sheriff's Department, as well as all other Departments in budgeting and distributing County and Federal monies. Pickaway County is operating in the black on a balanced budget, and we will strive to keep it that way.

Hatch Act Change OK'd By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal bureaucrats could run in next year's local, state and congressional elections for the first time in almost four decades under legislation passed by the House to revise the Hatch Act.

The measure approved Tuesday, 244-164, also would remove prohibitions that keep millions of federal workers from raising campaign funds or working for candidates in partisan elections.

The bill, which President Carter backs, faces a rougher time in the Senate. The Government Operations Committee has jurisdiction over the measure, and the panel's chairman, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has said previously he opposes it and will not push for its passage this year unless the House approves it by a large margin.

The bill would affect 2.8 million federal workers, three times as many as there were when the political restraints were applied in 1939 in an effort to eliminate political arm-twisting of federal workers by their bosses.

Political observers expect that the federal bureaucracy would be a potent political force because of the workers' experience and interest in government.

Republicans fear that a majority of workers would participate in Democratic campaigns. Democrats accounted for 222 of the 244 votes in favor of the bill, while Republicans cast 117 of 164 votes against it.

"This bill would only give federal workers the same rights that every other citizen has," Rep. William Clay, the bill's sponsor, said in arguing for passage.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said, "2.8 million people are shut out of the political life of this country. It's time to change that."

An opponent, Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill., said the bill would politicize the federal bureaucracy. "We could be turning loose a monster," he warned.

Wayne Hays Eyes Return To Politics

FLUSHING, Ohio (AP) — Former Congressman Wayne L. Hays says a lot of people are encouraging him to return to politics, and he may run for public office next year.

Hays, 66, who was one of the most powerful members of Congress when he resigned last September because of a sex scandal, said in an interview Wednesday that friends and well-wishers have encouraged him to return to politics.

"A lot of people have come up to me and said, 'You ought to run for something,'" said the former Democratic congressman.

He said he is not greatly interested in getting back into politics and is content putting around his Belmont County farm, golfing or working at the Citizens National Bank of Flushing, where he is board chairman.

But he said, "If enough people want me to run, I'll give it serious consideration."

He has told friends he might run for county auditor, county commissioner or the Ohio House seat held by State Rep. A.G. Lancione, D-99, of Bellaire. Lancione, 66, is in his 16th term in the House.

Hays said he was convinced that the scandal touched off by disclosures that he kept a mistress, Elizabeth Ray, on the government payroll as a secretary, would not be a big issue if he ran.

He said many people have told him congressmen who disliked him used it as an excuse to railroad him out of Congress.

Rep. Douglas Applegate, D-18, of St. Clairsville, who succeeded Hays in Congress last year, said Hays would be a formidable candidate.

"He would be a tough guy to beat if he ran for anything in Belmont County," said Applegate.

Hays promised a decision by Christmas.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Berea College's Summer Puppetry Caravan will be here before you know it! For Pickaway County, June 19th will be the start of a week packed with fun and entertainment. Everyone is invited to come see the Caravan's three puppet shows to be held June 19 at Ted Lewis Park; June 21 at Community Square, Williamsport; and June 23 at Ashville Community Park, Ashville. These performances will be free to the public, so bring your whole family and all of your friends!

Of special interest to teachers, scout leaders, church workers, and others who work with children in the Puppetry Workshop which the Caravan will conduct from 10-12:00 a.m., June 20-24 at the YMCA in Circleville. Children aged eight and over are also welcome to attend. Under the supervision of the Berea Troupe, participants will learn to make and use their own marionettes. All materials will be provided. Interested persons can register for the workshop at the public library on E. Main and Pickaway or the YMCA on E. Franklin. A ten dollar workshop fee (checks payable to "Friends of the Library") should accompany registration.

While you're waiting for the Berea Puppeteers to arrive, you can bone up on puppetry at the library with books from the Children's Room. Start with "Puppets for Beginners," a first guide to making simple and inexpensive puppets, stage, scenery, etc. Also included are tips on lighting, music, selling tickets, writing scripts — in short, everything the young amateur needs to know to put on his own puppet play.

If marionettes are your favorites, use "Marionettes: How to Make and Work Them." Detailed instructions illustrate how to make heads, bodies, and appendages, and, finally, how to string and manipulate them.

Excellent sources for scripts and ideas for puppet plays can be found in "Puppet and Pantomime Plays" and "Puppets and Puppet Plays."

For special days, "Holiday Puppets" contains very useful material on making specific puppets for ten holidays. Appropriate plays for each are also included.

Children's books on puppetry and related subjects can all be found in the nonfiction section under the call number "791.5." Take a moment to browse when you sign up for the workshop!

Urge 'Parents Day' Single Celebration

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's time to start celebrating a unisex Parents Day instead of Fathers Day and Mothers Day, according to a University of Cincinnati professor.

"Mothers and fathers days are becoming antiquated as traditional roles break down. What we need is a unisex Parents Day," said Joel Milgram, head of the Learning, Development and Social Foundations Department at the University of Cincinnati.

Cooler Air Makes Way Over Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cooling trend was moving through the northern Rockies today into Montana and Wyoming, producing cooler temperatures through the northern states.

However, little effective rainfall accompanied the weather change and forecasters said the danger of forest fires would be reduced only slightly by cooler temperatures and a lack of lightning.

The Northwestern states have been having unseasonably warm weather. Billings, Mont., for instance, had record high temperatures on five of the first eight days of this month.

There were some severe thunderstorms in the nation late Wednesday, but the only damage reported was some wind damage in Indiana and Florida. A gust during a thunderstorm northeast of Phoenix, Ariz., produced a wind gust measured at 82 miles per hour.

At midnight, moderate thundershowers were reported along the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes and in eastern Colorado. Showers and isolated thundershowers were widely scattered across the central Intermountain region and were spilling across the Divide in the northern Rockies ahead of the cooler air.

Frost and freeze warnings were up early today for portions of Michigan.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 33 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to 87 at Yuma and Phoenix, Ariz.

Milgram pointed out that traditional roles have blurred with women becoming more successful in the business world and men becoming more involved with the home and children.

His three children are being brought up not knowing exactly what the traditional roles of mother and father are, Milgram said.

"My children are used to me cooking, doing the laundry, even sewing," Milgram added.

He said fathers underestimate what it means to stay home with the child.

"When I stayed home with my kids for a few days, I couldn't believe all the running around," Milgram said.

The schools are also having an impact on the children's concept of roles. Milgram said he heard of one career day where school officials brought in a female pilot and a male nurse.

"My little girl wanted to be a lighthouse keeper last week and this week a doctor," he said. "A few years ago, I probably would have said, no, you mean a nurse."

Until such time that a unisex parents day becomes a reality, Milgram suggested that dad might enjoy something other than the traditional on his day, which this year is on June 19.

"The traditional gift for mothers is flowers and for fathers it's a pipe rack or slippers. Fathers do appreciate gifts of beauty and I say—let's give flowers for this Fathers Day," he concluded.

Ghost Haunts Executive Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ghost of Abraham Lincoln that's supposed to haunt the White House may have a rival in the neighboring Old Executive Office Building, which houses part of President Carter's staff.

The new "ghost" that is said to stalk the marble-floored corridors of the Old EOB, a 19th century relic venerable enough to house an attic full of spirits, has been given the name of John D. Ehrlichman.

Of course, Ehrlichman also was the name of the domestic policy assistant to resigned President Richard M. Nixon. It should be added that Nixon's Ehrlichman is alive and miles away from Washington, serving a federal prison term in Arizona for Watergate-related crimes.

The "ghost" surfaced a few months ago when Carter's people decided to try out an automatic pen used in past administrations by officials called upon to sign more letters than they could manage without help.

Housed in the EOB basement, the pen machine uses a large circular matrix to duplicate each particular signature.

According to an administration source, a Carter employee set the machine in motion and, lo, the signature that emerged read "John D. Ehrlichman."

This caused consternation, and gave rise to the fresh ghost story, because it is standard procedure to immediately destroy the signature matrix of each departing official. The real Ehrlichman had been fired by Nixon, albeit reluctantly, four years earlier.

Carter himself makes sparing use of the automatic pen. He signs most of his mail personally and, more than most Presidents since the invention of the typewriter, frequently writes entire letters in longhand. However, he has resorted to the robot pen when dispatching similarly phrased letters to large groups of people.

Presidential aides who must sign replies to many of the thousands of letters Carter receives each week use the robot extensively. Without it they'd have time for little else except signing letters.

Even if you never wondered what Presidents and their wives talk about in private, the following might prove instructive:

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, did not betray a trace of a smile this week as he reported on one such conversation, by telephone, between the President and his

Visitors will be able to see rainbow and golden trout, adult largemouth bass, fingerling walleye and muskellunge.

Fishing clinics will be conducted each day.

hemispheretrotting wife Rosalynn.

"The President did talk to Mrs. Carter this morning," Powell related. "She was very pleased with her visit to Peru. She told the President that she recognized that the visit to Brazil would be one of the more difficult stops on her trip, but she felt that a frank discussion of various agreements as well as differences would be the best step toward increased understanding."

"She told him all that?" an incredulous reporter asked. "That's what he said," Powell responded, unable at this point to conceal a broad grin.

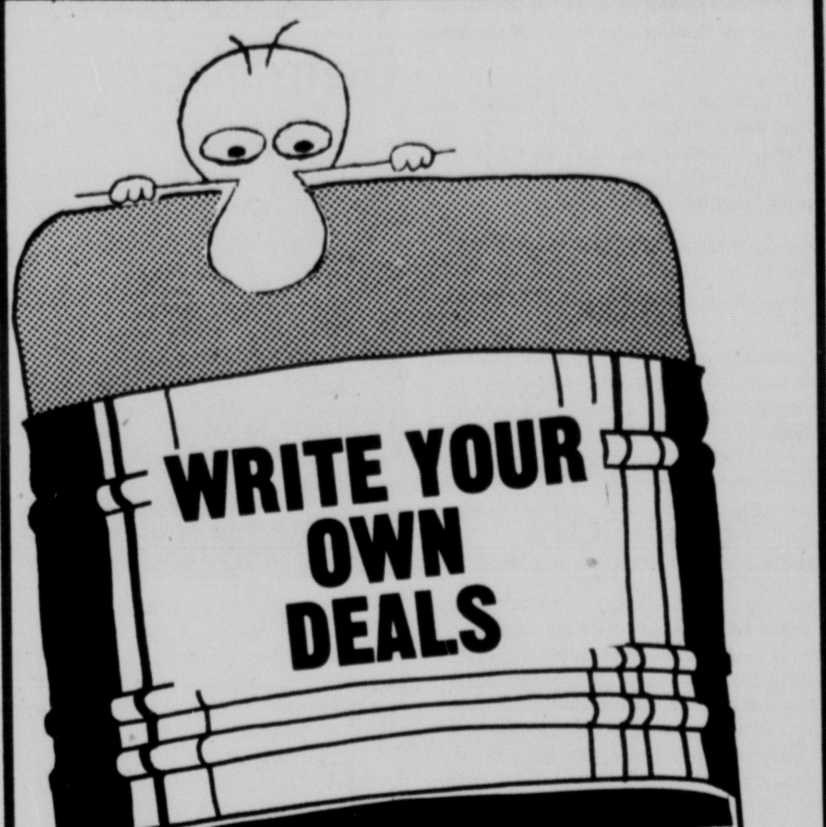

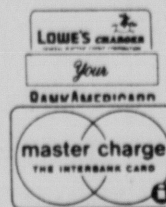

Another reporter asked Powell to repeat exactly what Rosalynn had said to Jimmy. Without consulting notes, the press secretary repeated himself almost verbatim. Asked how he could put on such a facile performance, Powell said: "I listen very carefully when the First Lady's spokesman speaks to me."

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Berea College's Summer Puppetry Caravan will be here before you know it! For Pickaway County, June 19th will be the start of a week packed with fun and entertainment. Everyone is invited to come see the Caravan's three puppet shows to be held June 19 at Ted Lewis Park; June 21 at Community Square, Williamsport; and June 23 at Ashville Community Park, Ashville. These performances will be free to the public, so bring your whole family and all of your friends!

Of special interest to teachers, scout leaders, church workers, and others who work with children in the Puppetry Workshop which the Caravan will conduct from 10-12:00 a.m., June 20-24 at the YMCA in Circleville. Children aged eight and over are also welcome to attend. Under the supervision of the Berea Troupe, participants will learn to make and use their own marionettes. All materials will be provided. Interested persons can register for the workshop at the public library on E. Main and Pickaway or the YMCA on E. Franklin. A ten dollar workshop fee (checks payable to "Friends of the Library") should accompany registration.

While you're waiting for the Berea Puppeteers to arrive, you can bone up on puppetry at the library with books from the Children's Room. Start with "Puppets for Beginners," a first guide to making simple and inexpensive puppets, stage, scenery, etc. Also included are tips on lighting, music, selling tickets, writing scripts — in short, everything the young amateur needs to know to put on his own puppet play.

If marionettes are your favorites, use "Marionettes: How to Make and Work Them." Detailed instructions illustrate how to make heads, bodies, and appendages, and, finally, how to string and manipulate them.

Excellent sources for scripts and ideas for puppet plays can be found in "Puppet and Pantomime Plays" and "Puppets and Puppet Plays."

For special days, "Holiday Puppets" contains very useful material on making specific puppets for ten holidays. Appropriate plays for each are also included.

Children's books on puppetry and related subjects can all be found in the nonfiction section under the call number "791.5." Take a moment to browse when you sign up for the workshop!

Urge 'Parents Day' Single Celebration

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's time to start celebrating a unisex Parents Day instead of Fathers Day and Mothers Day, according to a University of Cincinnati professor.

"Mothers and fathers days are becoming antiquated as traditional roles break down. What we need is a unisex Parents Day," said Joel Milgram, head of the Learning, Development and Social Foundations Department at the University of Cincinnati.

Cooler Air Makes Way Over Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cooling trend was moving through the northern Rockies today into Montana and Wyoming, producing cooler temperatures through the northern states.

However, little effective rainfall accompanied the weather change and forecasters said the danger of forest fires would be reduced only slightly by cooler temperatures and a lack of lightning.

The Northwestern states have been having unseasonably warm weather. Billings, Mont., for instance, had record high temperatures on five of the first eight days of this month.

There were some severe thunderstorms in the nation late Wednesday, but the only damage reported was some wind damage in Indiana and Florida. A gust during a thunderstorm northeast of Phoenix, Ariz., produced a wind gust measured at 82 miles per hour.

At midnight, moderate thundershowers were reported along the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes and in eastern Colorado. Showers and isolated thundershowers were widely scattered across the central Intermountain region and were spilling across the Divide in the northern Rockies ahead of the cooler air.

Frost and freeze warnings were up early today for portions of Michigan.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 33 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to 87 at Yuma and Phoenix, Ariz.

Milgram pointed out that traditional roles have blurred with women becoming more successful in the business world and men becoming more involved with the home and children.

His three children are being brought up not knowing exactly what the traditional roles of mother and father are, Milgram said.

"My children are used to me cooking, doing the laundry, even sewing," Milgram added.

He said fathers underestimate what it means to stay home with the child.

"When I stayed home with my kids for a few days, I couldn't believe all the running around," Milgram said.

The schools are also having an impact on the children's concept of roles. Milgram said he heard of one career day where school officials brought in a female pilot and a male nurse.

"My little girl wanted to be a lighthouse keeper last week and this week a doctor," he said. "A few years ago, I probably would have said, no, you mean a nurse."

Until such time that a unisex parents day becomes a reality, Milgram suggested that dad might enjoy something other than the traditional on his day, which this year is on June 19.

"The traditional gift for mothers is flowers and for fathers it's a pipe rack or slippers. Fathers do appreciate gifts of beauty and I say—let's give flowers for this Fathers Day," he concluded.

Wayne Hays Eyes Return To Politics

FLUSHING, Ohio (AP) — Former Congressman Wayne L. Hays says a lot of people are encouraging him to return to politics, and he may run for public office next year.

Hays, 66, who was one of the most powerful members of Congress when he resigned last September because of a sex scandal, said in an interview Wednesday that friends and well-wishers have encouraged him to return to politics.

"A lot of people have come up to me and said, 'You ought to run for something,'" said the former Democratic congressman.

He said he is not greatly interested in getting back into politics and is content pattering around his Belmont County farm, golfing or working at the Citizens National Bank of Flushing, where he is board chairman.

But he said, "If enough people want me to run, I'll give it serious consideration."

He has told friends he might run for county auditor, county commissioner or the Ohio House seat held by State Rep. A.G. Lancione, D-99, of Bellaire. Lancione, 66, is in his 16th term in the House.

Hays said he was convinced that the scandal touched off by disclosures that he kept a mistress, Elizabeth Ray, on the government payroll as a secretary, would not be a big issue if he ran.

He said many people have told him congressmen who disliked him used it as an excuse to railroad him out of Congress.

Rep. Douglas Applegate, D-18, of St. Clairsville, who succeeded Hays in Congress last year, said Hays would be a formidable candidate.

"He would be a tough guy to beat if he ran for anything in Belmont County," said Applegate.

Hays promised a decision by Christmas.

Ghost Haunts Executive Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ghost of Abraham Lincoln that's supposed to haunt the White House may have a rival in the neighboring Old Executive Office Building, which houses part of President Carter's staff.

The new "ghost" that is said to stalk the marble-floored corridors of the Old EOB, a 19th century relic venerable enough to house an attic full of spirits, has been given the name of John D. Ehrlichman.

Of course, Ehrlichman also was the name of the domestic policy assistant to resigned President Richard M. Nixon. It should be added that Nixon's Ehrlichman is alive and miles away from Washington, serving a federal prison term in Arizona for Watergate-related crimes.

The "ghost" surfaced a few months ago when Carter's people decided to try out an automatic pen used in past administrations by officials called upon to sign more letters than they could manage without help.

Housed in the EOB basement, the pen machine uses a large circular matrix to duplicate each particular signature.

According to an administration source, a Carter employee set the machine in motion and, lo, the signature that emerged read "John D. Ehrlichman."

This caused consternation, and gave rise to the fresh ghost story, because it is standard procedure to immediately destroy the signature matrix of each departing official. The real Ehrlichman had been fired by Nixon, albeit reluctantly, four years earlier.

Carter himself makes sparing use of the automatic pen. He signs most of his mail personally and, more than most Presidents since the invention of the typewriter, frequently writes entire letters in longhand. However, he has resorted to the robot pen when dispatching similarly phrased letters to large groups of people.

Presidential aides who must sign replies to many of the thousands of letters Carter receives each week use the robot extensively. Without it they'd have time for little else except signing letters.

Even if you never wondered what Presidents and their wives talk about in private, the following might prove instructive:

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, did not betray a trace of a smile this week as he reported on one such conversation, by telephone, between the President and his

Strawberry Breakfast

Approximately 65 people were in attendance at the first annual Strawberry breakfast sponsored by Young Life of Circleville. Guests were treated to strawberry pancakes, rolls with strawberry preserves, fresh strawberries and other breakfast delights prepared by the Pickaway Arms.

Following the breakfast, the program was under the control of David Chilcoat, Young Life Area Director from Columbus. Some cities are beginning to find that their own workers can collect garbage cheaper and more efficiently than private refuse companies.

Pittsburgh and Richmond, Va. are saving hundreds of thousands of dollars a year by doing away with private contract garbage service and letting city employees do the job.

Minneapolis and Oklahoma City have divided their cities into sectors, some serviced by private refuse firms and the rest by city sanitationmen. The results so far have been greater productivity from both public and private workers competing against each other, and lower costs to taxpayers.

For years the conventional wisdom has been that garbage collection chores could be handled by private companies at savings to a city.

But in Minneapolis, 50,000 homes are served by city garbage workers and 73,000 by private contractors paid by the city. Clayton Sorenson, Director of Public Works, says that after five years, city costs have dropped steadily while the amount of refuse collected has tripled.

"When we began the arrangement, the private contract haulers were doing the job cheaper than our city workers. But we laid out route assignments for the city workers and told them they could go home anytime they were finished, even if it was less than an eight-hour day.

"Productivity increased," Sorenson says. "We disposed of the stereotype that public workers aren't human beings, that they can't be efficient."

The competitive atmosphere between public and private workers in Minneapolis has worked so well that a year ago city employees were found to be doing their job slightly cheaper than private contractors.

As a result, the private firms lowered their rates to keep up with the cost-efficiency of the city garbage collectors.

It is this kind of side-by-side competition that some feel is the ideal arrangement.

"It's exactly what we're hoping for," says Pat Lay, director of Public Service in Oklahoma City, which implemented a similar mix of public and private garbage pickup on May 2.

The various ways that cities can best dispose of trash were discussed in a study published last winter by Prof. E. S. Savas of Columbia University.

Savas says the most efficient way to handle garbage in larger cities is to divide it into districts of roughly 50,000 persons. The city should then contract out some of them to private firms. The city's own workers pick up the rest. If handled properly, the resulting competition can do wonders — keeping private service costs low, while increasing public worker productivity.

In Pittsburgh, the North Side district with about 80,000 persons was being served by Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc., the nation's largest private refuse collector.

Frank Williams, director of Pittsburgh's Department of Environmental Services, said that by 1975, "we costed out the whole thing and we figured the city could take the North Side over at a savings of $200,000."

There is no clear-cut trend favoring either private or municipal collection. But Savas's study finds that increasingly cities are willing to change, and the changes have been about equally divided between those that switch to private pickup and municipal pickup.

Currently an average of one city out of 80 makes a switch one way or another each year, Savas said in a recent interview.

His study of 2,060 U.S. cities found that among cities with populations of 250,000 to 750,000, 73 per cent use municipal garbage pickup for part or all of the city, and the proportion decreases rapidly to 23 per cent for cities with populations of 2,500 to 10,000.

The study, which didn't include cities with populations over 750,000, also found nearly three-quarters of Southern cities favoring municipal collection, but only about 19 per cent of Northeastern cities using public garbage workers.

Most of the nation's largest cities use municipal garbage collection, usually because of longstanding and hard-to-change arrangements with unions. San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Boston and

The class of 1937 was introduced by Mrs. Grace Heffner Delong. Those in attendance were: Mrs. Thelma Huber Bergman, Mr. Glenn Dawson, Mrs. Edith Bower Eby, Mrs. Blanche Hill Kerns, Mrs. Bernelle Waliser Moore, Mrs. Vivian Justice Stump. had expected," the 34-year-old Miss Hoefer said. They consisted of exercises and drills designed to train the reflexes and the mind.

"Most fencers I've met are chess players," she said.

Good reflexes are important, she said, because fencing is one of world's fastest sports.

It takes time to develop reflexes properly, she said. Immediate success is unlikely.

"It usually takes three years to win your first trophy and seven years to know what you're doing," said Miss Hoefer, who has now won 15 trophies.

It took exactly three years for Miss Hoefer to win her first trophy. She took an eighth place in a competition in Cleveland. The prize was a set of cuff links.

"I'm very proud of them. They're my most important trophy," she said.

It took five years for her to win a first place-trophy. She had to take 17 consecutive matches in one day to do it.

Miss Hoefer, an operating room nurse at a local hospital, belongs to the Cincinnati Fencing Club. She's also active with a church group that gives fencing demonstrations to inner-city youth.

Participating in a sport which is not generally understood by the public brings some ribbing from friends.

"They're always asking me what duel I'm fencing in this week," Miss Hoefer said.

She became ill while in the local bank one day last week and was taken to Berger hospital. She was later transferred to Mt. The weatherman fouled up the plans of a lot of Laurelville area viewers who had looked forward to seeing "Doctors on Call" on channel 4 at 11 a.m. last Sunday and hear the subject of arthritis discussed by four doctors. One of the doctors was Dr. Ron Whisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Whisler of Rt. 1. I personally twisted every knob on my set trying to clear up the mass of lines and the noise but caught only a fleeting glimpse of Ron and all I got of the discussion was "live with it" and "Diet is important." I have been living with it for some years now and every one who knows the story about Arthur being the worst one of the Ritis boys. On Sunday one viewer even called the Channel 4 station in Columbus and got the report that the trouble was caused by the weather and there was nothing they could do about it. I know one thing they might do since all programs are taped — why not "Play it again, Sam."

Mrs. Robert Reid attended the sixth graduation at S. Bloomville school on May 26. As each of the class received their diploma they were presented with a red carnation. They each, in turn, called up a teacher and the cook and presented them with a long stemmed red rose. Each youngster in the class was asked three questions: What would they wish for their school, what would they wish for their country and what would they wish for themselves. One boy said he would like to be President of the United States. Cake and punch were served at the close of the program. Mrs. Reid's granddaughter, Diana Harper was one of the graduates and will attend school in Logan next year.

A film "Corrie Ten Boom" (behind the scenes with The Hiding Place) was shown at the church of God last Wednesday evening.

Chip Zawacki, a sophomore at Logan Elm High School, was on the school track team this year. He won several ribbons, earned his varsity letter and received a trophy at the track banquet for "The most improved" member of the team. This was his first year on the track team.

Mrs. Margaret Johnson, who three weeks ago underwent surgery for the removal of a damaged hip joint and the implant of a new hip socket and ball, is recuperating at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, George and Charlotte Ash. Margaret would like to thank friends, neighbors and family for the many lovely flowers, cards, well wishes and prayers that helped so much during her hospital stay. She will be using crutches for some time. Her visitors the past week were her brother, Jack Binkley, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ross and grandson Johnathon, Billie Sue Johnson and Theta DeLong. Sunday supper guests of the Ash family and Margaret were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ash and daughters Cheryl and Shannon.

Laurelville Alumni Members: don't forget the alumni banquet on Saturday evening, June 18th, at the school gym. Registration at 6, dinner at 6:30.

We are really having trouble getting David Swackhammer graduated. In listing the graduates who received Bibles at Laurel Hills last Sunday I gave the name of his brother Roger instead of David. It gave David a setback but made Roger feel good, for a little while.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fausnaugh and family, Tom Meade, Mrs. Ruth Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harper and family spent four days camping at Old Man's Cave last week. On Saturday evening they enjoyed seeing a film "Held for Ransom" (a true story of a Christian woman's kidnap and how she used the circumstances to witness her faith). On Sunday they attended Sunday School and church at the Camper's Chapel and heard a young minister deliver his first sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ash and Mr. and Mrs. George Hunt took in the Flea Market and antique car show at the Lancaster fairground last Sunday. Cheryl and Shannon Ash spent the day with Grandpa and Grandma Ash.

Mrs. Robert Reid and Mrs. Robert Harper visited Mrs. Ada Steele last Tuesday. Mrs. Steel recently returned home from Ross Medical Center where she underwent surgery.

Thursday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Fortner and Rachel were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Stevens and Ricky of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fortner of Reynoldsburg, Mrs. Robert Reid and Mrs. Ethel Poling.

Showers, Cool Air Dominant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Showers and cool weather ended today and cool, sunny weather will dominate Ohio agriculture for the next several days.

Field Operations — The surface soil layer will be moist for a couple days. This will help recently planted soybeans. The dry subsurface soil will quickly absorb any excess surface moisture. Any field delays will be of short duration. Sunny skies and moderate drying rates will be typical through Sunday. Look for daily evaporation rates of around 0.15 to 0.25 hundredths of an inch through Friday.

Temperature Outlook — A cool high pressure area will be moving southeast through the central Great Lakes region today, with the center reaching southeast Lower Michigan by Friday morning. More cool nighttime readings in the 40s are likely tonight. Surface conditions are moist so ground level temperatures will be only a couple degrees lower than air at five foot level.

Haying Outlook — Hay already cut will have favorable drying conditions through Friday. Any new cuttings today will have low rain risk through Sunday, but there is a chance of scattered showers Monday.

Fruit and Vegetable Progress — Ohio horticulture specialists report that insect and disease problems have been very infrequently experienced on fruits and vegetables this season. However, they point out that if irrigation is being used, fungicides should be renewed because chemicals are washed off by wetting and humidity in the irrigated area is high.

Liquor Permit Rules Explained

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Liquor Control Director Clifford E. Reich said Monday, "There is simply no reason communities should tolerate bad spots which are a public nuisance and police burden."
Reich reminded communities they have the right under legislation passed last year to object to liquor permit renewals and to request the department to conduct hearings on renewal applications.
"This provision is one tool that can be used effectively to control the problem of nuisance permit premises," Reich said.
All liquor permits expire Oct. 1, and local governments have until Aug. 31 to submit their objections.

Liquor Permit Rules Explained

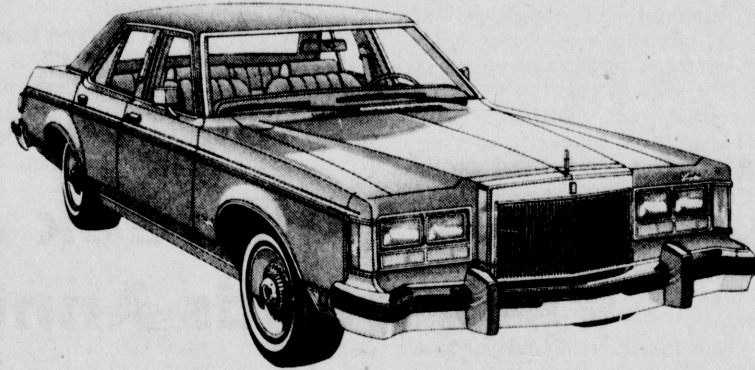

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Liquor Control Director Clifford E. Reich said Monday, "There is simply no reason communities should tolerate bad spots which are a public nuisance and police burden."

Reich reminded communities they have the right under legislation passed last year to object to liquor permit renewals and to request the department to conduct hearings on renewal applications.

"This provision is one tool that can be used effectively to control the problem of nuisance permit premises," Reich said.

All liquor permits expire Oct. 1, and local governments have until Aug. 31 to submit their objections.

Utilities Report Big Profits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. stock looks like a hot item as the company predicts its rate of return will hit 27.09 per cent this year—a 16.8 per cent jump over last year.

The company claims the big increase is the result of recent rate hikes. It justifies the high profits on the need for its investors to recoup from small returns two years ago when the return on equity was only 1.81 per cent.

"The basic reason is that we got a rate increase late in 1976," Bruce Stoeklin of CG&E explained Tuesday.

The rate of return on equity shows how much profit a firm makes compared to the outstanding value of common stock. A commonly accepted range for that figure for utility companies is about 12 per cent, says John Cuddy, assistant director of utilities of the Public Utilities Commission.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1976, CG&E made $4.4 million. The company is predicting profits of $12.1 million for this year.

"...Higher than normal earnings are required for the year 1977 to compensate investors for the inadequate earnings of recent years," wrote Miles J. Doan, CG&E vice president in explaining the projections to the PUCO.

CG&E, like the other large natural gas utilities in Ohio is benefiting from this winter's extremely cold weather. Profit pictures are bound to improve across the board, Cuddy said.

Residential customers pay a higher price for gas than commercial or industrial users. Since gas supplies were virtually shut off to all but homes during the first quarter of this year, the gas companies were making abnormally high profits. Some critics in government have called the profits excessive.

By comparison, East Ohio Gas Co. based in Cleveland is projecting that its stockholders will get back 17.79 per cent on their investment. East Ohio also is benefiting from recent rate increases. The company projects that it will earn profits of $49.9 million this year.

Last year East Ohio paid its stockholders a 13.74 per cent return. As with all other major gas utilities, the rate of return to stockholders has been steadily increasing yearly. In 1973 for example, East Ohio stock returned 8.02 per cent. The figure was 9.42 per cent in the CG&E case.

Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc. predicts it will make $21.8 million this year, down from a 1976 profit of $23.4 million. The rate of return likewise is predicted to fall to 16.9 per cent from 18.9 per cent last year.

Dayton Power and Light Co. failed to file predicted financial data for 1977.

DP&L reports, however, paying its stockholders 11.9 per cent for 1976. The profit figure hit $46.4 million, reports show.

DP&L and CG&E are the only companies that are owned by the general public. Columbia Gas is a solely-owned subsidiary of the Columbia Gas System Inc. of Wilmington, Del. East Ohio is owned by parent firm Consolidated Gas Supply Corp. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Red Grain Crop Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is headed for another bumper grain harvest this year, including a substantial increase in wheat production.

The Agriculture Department estimated Tuesday that 1977 Russian grain output will be 215 million metric tons, the third largest harvest on record. The 1976 grain harvest was a record 223.8 million tons and the second-ranking production was 222.5 million tons in 1973.

Officials said that Soviet crops have benefitted from "generally favorable weather and soil moisture conditions" although some parts of the spring crop area need rain.

If realized, the Soviet harvest could lead to a further buildup in grain reserves. The department's task force on Soviet grain said that further reports will shed more light on 1977 production.

Those reports will be issued approximately each month throughout the remainder of the grain season.

Carter May Yet Support B1

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, who plans to decide this month whether to approve development of the B1 bomber, is being tugged from opposite sides in a continuing argument over the airplane's value in a modern defense system.

The B1, say its proponents, is a necessary element in the U.S. arsenal, an airplane that can fly beneath radar screens to deliver its nuclear payload after the initial wave of missiles.

But, say its opponents, it costs too much, its job can be carried out by the existing fleet of B52 bombers, and, with adequate missiles, manned bombers are not needed.

Advocates of the bomber's development met with Carter on Tuesday. Its opponents are scheduled to meet with him Friday. And by the end of June, says Carter, "a basic judgment" on whether to proceed with the aircraft will be made.

The Pentagon sees the B1 as part of the defense system "triad," which includes sea-based and land-based missiles.

B1s would replace the B52s, built on technology from the 1950s. B52s now constitute the mainstay of the Air Force's bomber fleet. But opponents of the B1 say the B52s could be used into the 1990s.

After the President met Tuesday with House and Senate members who support the B1, Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter was "open to arguments (that) there is some merit" in the advanced bomber.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said after the meeting that Carter "is becoming convinced we can't live without the B1."

All this is in contrast with what Carter said during the presidential campaign last year, when he made clear his opposition to the bomber by calling it a wasteful project that should not be funded.

Powell said he couldn't say Goldwater was wrong in indicating Carter may be coming around to the thinking of the airplane's advocates. "I can't guess where he's leaning," the spokesman said.

The Air Force wants a fleet of 244 B1s at a total anticipated cost of $24.8 billion — about $102 million for each bomber.

But Goldwater, a retired major general in the Air Force reserve, indicated that a smaller number, perhaps 155, "would satisfy the strategic needs of the country."

Young Keeps Job Despite Growing Ire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young is in good graces at the White House even though he says the last four presidents were racists and the Russians are racists and Abraham Lincoln was a racist, too.

"He's absolutely in no trouble," said one administration source in a position to know. The administration official spelled out President Carter's attitude after the U.N. ambassador spent half an hour Tuesday with Carter in the Oval Office.

The ambassador, black and a former lieutenant to civil rights leader Martin Luther King, emerged from the meeting with Carter saying that the President told him "in context he understood what I was trying to say" about racism.

Hostage Case Set For Trial Aug. 8

CINCINNATI (AP) — The hostage case of a Utica, Mich., man and his former wife, allegedly inspired by the television drama "Roots," has been tentatively set for trial Aug. 8.

However, Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Thomas Nurre, who ruled Wednesday that Jesse Coulter, 42, is sane enough to stand trial, will have to rule on several legal motions beforehand.

Nurre said he would rule Monday on whether a jury trial on Coulter's sanity must be conducted first.

Coulter and his former wife, Rita Loise Gibran, 37, are charged with 11 counts of kidnaping for allegedly holding 11 hostages at the point of a sawed-off shotgun for 15 hours at the Catherine Booth Home for unwed mothers in February.

Coulter is also charged with four counts of felonious assault. Mrs. Gibran is charged on one count of felonious assault.

Eight of the hostages escaped after one hostage kicked the weapon from Coulter's hand, police said. The remaining three were released unharmed when the pair surrendered, convinced that a plainclothes policeman was their long lost son.

The Salvation Army, which runs the home, said Coulter demanded to be told the whereabouts of the couple's son who was placed for adoption with the home 20 years ago.

Eugene Smith, Coulter's lawyer, said following the surrender that Coulter was inspired by "Roots," in

Did he encourage Young to keep speaking out?

"No. I don't think he has to encourage me. But he didn't tell me to shut up, either."

Does Carter share his views on racism?

"I think he understands my views on racism."

Does he share them?

"Oh, I doubt that, no."

But the administration source said Carter "for the most part" thinks Young is saying things that need to be said. "They had a very cordial and friendly meeting," the source said. "He (Carter) is not upset by what the Republicans are saying."

Indeed, the administration went to some lengths to show that Carter will not knuckle under to Republican demands that Young apologize for his remarks or be ousted. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told reporters Young should never have been appointed.

While declining to bring Young to the White House press room because that might appear too staged, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell arranged for him to face reporters in the driveway, escorted Young out to meet them and escorted him away afterward.

Young, however, appeared less than eager to talk long.

Twice he thanked the reporters and tried unsuccessfully to leave. At one point he said: "I think the Republicans really have had so little to criticize in this administration if I didn't do what I'm doing they'd have to invent me."

EAST CENTRAL SOUTHEAST

Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the mid to upper 40s. Mostly sunny and warmer tomorrow with highs in the mid 70s. Probability of rain near zero per cent tonight and Friday.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skies were to begin clearing today after a night which finally saw Ohio receive some much-needed rainfall.

Overnight rainfall ranged from .25 inch to one inch and showers were lingering this morning in the eastern counties.

As the low pressure system responsible for the rainfall pushed eastward, clearing skies were to move into Ohio from the west.

Some rather strong thunderstorm activity accompanied the passage of the low Wednesday evening in central and southwestern Ohio but there were no immediate reports of damage.

High pressure was pushing south into the lower lakes and Ohio Valley behind the low and is expected to dominate Ohio's weather for several days.

Tonight will be clear and cool with readings dropping into the 40s followed by a sunny and warmer day Friday with highs climbing into the mid and upper 70s. This warming trend should continue through the weekend.

Skies were to begin clearing today after a night which finally saw Ohio receive some much-needed rainfall.

Overnight rainfall ranged from .25 inch to one inch and showers were lingering this morning in the eastern counties.

As the low pressure system responsible for the rainfall pushed eastward, clearing skies were to move into Ohio from the west.

Some rather strong thunderstorm activity accompanied the passage of the low Wednesday evening in central and southwestern Ohio but there were no immediate reports of damage.

High pressure was pushing south into the lower lakes and Ohio Valley behind the low and is expected to dominate Ohio's weather for several days.

Tonight will be clear and cool with readings dropping into the 40s followed by a sunny and warmer day Friday with highs climbing into the mid and upper 70s. This warming trend should continue through the weekend.

Young Keeps Job Despite Growing Ire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young is in good graces at the White House even though he says the last four presidents were racists and the Russians are racists and Abraham Lincoln was a racist, too.

"He's absolutely in no trouble," said one administration source in a position to know. The administration official spelled out President Carter's attitude after the U.N. ambassador spent half an hour Tuesday with Carter in the Oval Office.

The ambassador, black and a former lieutenant to civil rights leader Martin Luther King, emerged from the meeting with Carter saying that the President told him "in context he understood what I was trying to say" about racism.

Hostage Case Set For Trial Aug. 8

CINCINNATI (AP) — The hostage case of a Utica, Mich., man and his former wife, allegedly inspired by the television drama "Roots," has been tentatively set for trial Aug. 8.

However, Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Thomas Nurre, who ruled Wednesday that Jesse Coulter, 42, is sane enough to stand trial, will have to rule on several legal motions beforehand.

Nurre said he would rule Monday on whether a jury trial on Coulter's sanity must be conducted first.

Coulter and his former wife, Rita Loise Gibran, 37, are charged with 11 counts of kidnaping for allegedly holding 11 hostages at the point of a sawed-off shotgun for 15 hours at the Catherine Booth Home for unwed mothers in February.

Coulter is also charged with four counts of felonious assault. Mrs. Gibran is charged on one count of felonious assault.

Eight of the hostages escaped after one hostage kicked the weapon from Coulter's hand, police said. The remaining three were released unharmed when the pair surrendered, convinced that a plainclothes policeman was their long lost son.

The Salvation Army, which runs the home, said Coulter demanded to be told the whereabouts of the couple's son who was placed for adoption with the home 20 years ago.

Eugene Smith, Coulter's lawyer, said following the surrender that Coulter was inspired by "Roots," in

Did he encourage Young to keep speaking out?

"No. I don't think he has to encourage me. But he didn't tell me to shut up, either."

Does Carter share his views on racism?

"I think he understands my views on racism."

Does he share them?

"Oh, I doubt that, no."

But the administration source said Carter "for the most part" thinks Young is saying things that need to be said. "They had a very cordial and friendly meeting," the source said. "He (Carter) is not upset by what the Republicans are saying."

Indeed, the administration went to some lengths to show that Carter will not knuckle under to Republican demands that Young apologize for his remarks or be ousted. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told reporters Young should never have been appointed.

While declining to bring Young to the White House press room because that might appear too staged, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell arranged for him to face reporters in the driveway, escorted Young out to meet them and escorted him away afterward.

Young, however, appeared less than eager to talk long.

Twice he thanked the reporters and tried unsuccessfully to leave. At one point he said: "I think the Republicans really have had so little to criticize in this administration if I didn't do what I'm doing they'd have to invent me."

Riffe Doing Well As Demo Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, has done an impressive job keeping his Democratic troops in line this year, almost everyone agrees.

Getting along with each other has never been a Democratic characteristic—even when they have the votes to wield the kind of power they now enjoy in the legislature.

They were unable to re-elect their last two governors, for example.

Riffe, a 51-year-old insurance agent now in his second term as speaker, rounded up a couple of strays and produced a solid, 62-member front to override GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes' vetoes of the controversial election day voter registration bill.

Some House Democrats had conceded privately that they had serious questions about the legislation, especially since a similar Carter Administration proposal had run into trouble in Congress.

But when the votes were counted on the override roll call, the speaker had them all in tow. The bill went on to a questionable fate in the courts as a result of some parliamentary challenges.

The speaker, as he had many times before, brought together a band of "free thinkers"—he agreed this is an appropriate term—which included labor leaders, school teachers, lawyers, farmers, "full time" legislators, saloon keepers, construction men, housewives, and others who make up the mixture of House Democrats.

How does he do it?

No one in the ranks of the Democratic caucus will talk too freely about it. But they give the impression that Riffe, a possible candidate for governor next year, rules with an iron hand once he has a consensus. "Firm but fair," one of his lieutenants said.

Riffe doesn't mind talking about it, but understandably will not divulge all of his secrets. Just as in any other political organization, there are those aspiring to his job—waiting for a serious slip.

But the dapper-dressed Riffe told The Associated Press that to be successful as speaker, "you have to tell it like it is."

"If a member wants a favor, you do it for him or her if you can...if you can't, you tell them why. Usually, they understand."

The explanation may be a bit simplistic.

Another factor could be, as Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, the assistant majority floor leader, put it, the speaker "is conservative. The mood of the people is conservative right now."

In other words, Sweeney, now in his 11th year in the House, seemed to suggest that Democrats are voting the wishes of their own constituents, as well as acting at Riffe's bidding.

It comes out as a plus for Riffe's leadership in party circles, nevertheless.

Will he run for governor next year, given the fact that Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste and Atty. Gen. William J. Brown already have a head start with money and organizations? "It's a tough decision," he said.

Asked about one member's observation that he already is more powerful than GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes in some ways, at least, with the veto proof majority in the House, the speaker smiled and turned away.

Race Bias Judge Rapped

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The federal judge who found the Cleveland and Ohio boards of education guilty of intentional segregation in Cleveland's schools sometimes created his own evidence, the boards argue in appealing the ruling.

A three-judge 6th Circuit Court of Appeals took oral testimony today while both boards already were proceeding with desegregation orders that stemmed from the ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti.

In separate briefs, the Cleveland board charged that Battisti made effect the equivalent of intent in determining whether board actions and policies were aimed at racial isolation. Instead, the board said, he should have paid more attention to recent Supreme Court decisions recognizing purpose.

The state board contended that Battisti had "virtually ignored" 4,000 pages of oral testimony about programs and policies it established to combat racial isolation.

Battisti has ordered the boards to go ahead with integration plans pending the appellate decision that isn't expected until late summer.

Bridge Users Quick On Trigger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tolls are going up on three heavily used bridges near here July 1, but some commuters apparently can't wait until then.

The tolls on the Bay, Dumbarton and San Mateo bridges will jump from 50 cents to 75 cents. Headlines announcing the change apparently have confused some conscientious motorists.

"They put it in your hand and take off," said Gerald Shenk at the Bay Bridge, a major link between San Francisco and the East Bay. "I have had to blow the whistle at some of them to stop them."

Shenk says he has been able to catch most of the eager travelers. "June 1 was the worst day," he recalled. "People had read the raise went into effect on 'something the first' so on the first day of June they started to try to pay more."

Cafe Reopened After Goat Prank

DAVIS CITY, Iowa (AP) — Mayor Harold Thompson, who closed the town's only cafe in anger, has reopened. Someone finally owned up to leaving a goat in the shop.

The goat spent Saturday night in the cafe, and Thompson, who owns the place, closed shop and demanded that the prankster make himself known.

"He called me last night and we got it straightened out," Thompson said Tuesday. "I opened up again this morning."

The mayor said, "The goat dirtied on the floor, that's all. He didn't knock anything over or tear the place up. Still, I was pretty aggravated at the time."

Now he figures, "It was just a joke — it's over. You should feel sorry for my wife. She had to clean up the mess."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Sex Meant For Mature Partners

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 17-year-old girl who many times has felt like going further than I should with a boy I really like. Abby, I'm going to ask you a question I wish I could ask my mother but can't because all I would get is a lecture.

Why should a girl be expected to wait until she's married to have sex? We all have normal passions that get stronger with adolescence. Married people have an outlet for their sex, but what about unmarried people?

Other countries like Samoa permit permarital sex. Why can't we? I can see logical reasons for not being promiscuous, such as danger of venereal disease and unwanted pregnancy, but when two people want sex and know how to prevent disease and pregnancy, why the big "No No"?

Our society is so advanced in other ways, but it insists that unmarried people either suppress their normal sex urges or pretend they don't exist. If there is any good reason why kids who are in love should refrain from premarital sex, I'd like to know what it is.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR SPEAKING: The big "No No" is not the relationship between two normal, healthy, MATURE, responsible, confused adolescent who mistakes his first sexual stirrings for "love."

"Knowing" how to prevent unwanted pregnancies and venereal disease is not enough to prevent them; witness NO decline in illegitimacy even with the Pill. And in spite of all the education concerning venereal disease, it's still a major public health problem.

When you are ready to accept all the responsibilities and commitments of "love" and a family, you will not ask me what is wrong with premarital sex.

FB Youth Conference Scheduled

The first of five Ohio Farm Bureau youth conferences will begin Sunday at Otterbein College in Westerville. Youth from southeastern Ohio will attend the conference which concludes Friday.

Shirley Boyd, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation director of youth activities, says more than 500 teenagers from nearly every Ohio county will attend the conferences. "The programs are planned as an educational experience with ample organized recreation," says Miss Boyd.

With the conference theme "Farm Bureau in Action," the youths will participate in a mock House of Representatives to demonstrate how state government operates. The youth will introduce simulated bills which move through committee and the legislature to become final laws.

The conferences will provide the youth with working knowledge of how democratic procedures are used in developing policy for the Ohio Farm Bureau.

Each session will feature classes in group singing, public speaking, safety, and square dance calling. The youth will organize a cooperative refreshment store, elect a board of directors and buy stock in the cooperative.

Dates and locations of the other four conferences are: Northeast Regional Conference, June 19-24, Hiram College; Southwest Regional Conference, July 10-15, Otterbein College; Northwest Regional Conference, July 17-22, Otterbein College; and Statewide Youth School, July 24-29, Otterbein College.

The first indoor ice skating rink was built in New York City in 1879 at Madison Square Garden.

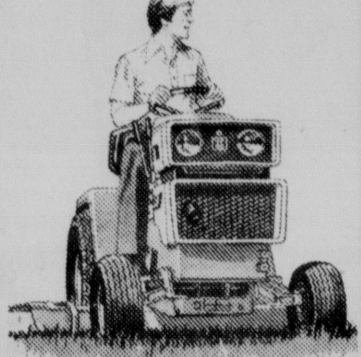

DEAR ABBY: I have worked at a service station for the last seven months, and I never realized how rude and thoughtless people can be. I hope you can find it in your heart to print these suggestions for your readers to consider:

1. Please take a few seconds and roll down your window and tell us what you want. We don't have bionic ears and we can't read lips. If you hold up five fingers, that could mean five gallons of gas OR $5 worth.
2. Don't ask us to check your oil when you plan to go right home and put a quart in. We don't need the experience. If you can put oil in at home, you can check it at home.
3. Please don't sit there with your door open while the attendant is trying to wash your windows.
4. When you finish using the air hose, please roll it back up and replace it on the hanger.
5. If all you have is a $100 bill, please ask the attendant if he is able to change it before he puts gas in your car. We keep our cash thinned down, and it's very irritating when someone gets a dollar's worth of gas and hands you a $100 bill.
6. If you want premium gas, please pull up to that pump. We can't get premium gas out of a regular pump.
7. PLEASE don't complain to us about the price of gas. We have nothing to do with the price. We just pump it. Thanks, Abby. Even if you don't print this, it sure felt good to get this off my chest.

Hope no one objects if I continue to reminisce a bit more about the Deercreek Dam Days Festival just past. The nearly total support of the community including surrounding areas such as New Holland, Mt. Sterling, Five Points, Clarksburg, Atlanta, Chillicothe, Washington C.H. and Circleville was positively wonderful. We were supported in so many ways by these areas with publicity, contributions, parade units, workers and so forth. Heaps of thanks to all!

Loads of thanks to the ladies of the Church of Christ in Christian Union who did a marvelous job in serving as a reception committee for the visiting queens. The queens were all so pleased to receive such a gracious welcome and the punch and cookies revived travel weary girls and their chaperones. Providing the girls with ample space to change from travel clothes to parade clothes was much appreciated.

A big thank you to Oscar Atwood who accepted the challenge of driving a bus load of pretty girls out to Deercreek State Park for the tour. Oscar pinch hit for the Rev. Leroy Newsome who had the misfortune to break bones in one of his feet just days before the festival began. He was originally scheduled to be the bus driver. Now, could there be any possible chance the good Reverend had this duty on his mind when he missed the back step and did the damage? We can tell you one thing for sure that even in his "crippled state" he still managed to lend a real helping hand to the festival.

A festival is plenty of hard work but there is time for some frivolity and yours truly and Dolly Thompson proved this when we had an absolute ball selling wine sno-cones for Wine Jelly Joe on Sunday evening after most of the crowd had left and the concessionaires were pulling out for their next stand. We each discovered we had a smidge of "corny carny" in us and Joe discovered we had the know how to sell sno-cones and related products. Our super salesmanship prompted one local fellow to buy a bottle of the pancake syrup and he doesn't even eat pancakes!!

Or there's the delightful golf cart ride Don Reams and Dick Perkins of Wellman's enjoyed with Dolly and me. They both remarked how they would never forget it (and a few other threats were tossed my way since I was the driver).

Always after a festival we have articles of clothing left behind and 1977 was no exception to the rule. If anyone wonders what happened to a blue bodysuit, black net leotards, blue socks and white fuzzy slipper socks they can be found at my home.

Should anyone have a roll of wide masking tape that is a stranger to them I will be happy to have it returned to me. During or rather prior to the parade on Saturday evening someone borrowed my tape and it did not make its way back to me.

We have already mentioned that Don Houck of East Monroe won the $100 raffle ticket sponsored by Williamsport Little League. Top salesmen for this venture were Dale Sullenberger and Rodney Atterholt and they each received a monetary award for their efforts.

Deercreek Sports Arena (formerly Atlanta school gym) held a gymnastics program recently and three little neighbor girls walked off with top honors. First place went to Tami Fullen, second to Tonda Bivens and third to Lisa Moore. The girls are Plummer Rd. residents.

We hear of blue Monday but it can be a blue Wednesday, too. Our friend Dorothy Schleich Albright of St. Louis, Missouri returned to her home via plane after guesting for several days with family. She was with brother Frank and his family at Grove City, then in our town she guested with sister Edith Straley and brother Gene Schleich and company. A sort of tradition has been established that when Dorothy comes to town she, Mary Alice Greenwood, Kate Schleich and yours truly get together for an evening out. This time we took two!

Last Friday the fearless four drove down to Cincinnati for a seafood buffet (despite Marvane Rihl's warnings) and a bit of shopping at the Tri-County fantabulous shopping center. Tuesday we were on the road again headed west to Dayton with lunch at the Totenko and more shopping at the equally fantabulous Dayton Mall shopping center (110 shops and we never missed a one). We traveled home via Waynesville, Wilmington where we had a bit of supper. Truly terrific times. Lots of fun, laughter, good companionship, good food, very relaxing.

Tiny tot Christina McMenemy of Columbus kept things lively for grandmother Edith Straley and Aunt Dorothy Albright this past week end. Christina's parents are Mike and Ann Straley McMenemy. Grandmother Edith is just fresh back from a super vacation that took her to Edinburgh, Scotland and London, England. Lynn Straley of Columbus accompanied her mother on the trip. In Scotland they were the guests of Edith's daughter Dona Straley who is completing work on her thesis.

Mae and Herschel Litter took some vacation time last week and on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday visited with an aunt, Mrs. Lace Sanger of Oak Hill. Leaving there they drove to Charleston, W. Va. and spent the remainder of Wednesday thru Friday with Mae's brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. David Daily.

I love a good auction sale and the one this past Saturday for Clyde and Dorothy Midel was great. The weather was beautiful, so was the merchandise and the folks attending were in good spirits and quite friendly. We especially enjoyed meeting with Grandma Neal — what a pleasant personality. Had a nice chat with Garnet Porter — love to listen to that gal's voice. Amy became the proud owner of a stereoscope and view cards and she has been ecstatic ever since. I was ultimate high bidder on an octagon table that I am enchanted by because it is so different. Papa Bill Easterday cringes every time I head for an auction for he knows only too well my fondness for bidding.

There is a new business in town. Don's Game Room opened its doors about a month ago and is fast becoming a fun place for the younger set to congregate. Snacks and soft drinks are available and a variety of games.

A dear friend, Hazel Weaver is a patient at Doctors Hospital North Room 310 at Columbus, Ohio. She is scheduled for surgery soon. Cards would do much to bring cheer to this kind and gentle person. She is mother to two local residents — Patty Reed and Dolly Thompson.

Guess I have spent more time eating out lately than anything else. Saturday evening I trotted along with Maxine Sykes and Ruth Long and joined others of the Pickaway Rural Letter Carriers Association for a dinner meeting at the Pickaway Arms in Circleville. It was nice to renew old friendships and make the acquaintance of several new ones. Nothing I like better than meeting people and especially if food is involved.

Time is mighty short to place reservations for a night at Tecumseh so if you have been meaning to call Mary Alice Greenwood, 986-5481 there is not a better time than the present moment. June 20 is the date. Transportation will be available for those who need it.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: Don't walk in front of me — I may not follow; don't walk behind me—I might not lead; Just walk beside me and be my friend.

Mean Old Alligator Proves Moneymaker

PONCHATOULA, La. (AP) — Once upon a time in Chappelle Creek there lived a mean old alligator.

One day some boys, swimming in the creek, came upon the mean old alligator. Being country boys, born and raised in the southern Louisiana swampland, they were not frightened.

They got some ropes, lassoed that mean old alligator, and, as they say in these parts, drug him home.

By and by, the mean old alligator became the richest old alligator in the whole world. People can't resist throwing money at him.

His life, alas, was not always so blessed.

The country boys who found him discovered that their mamas did not want a mean old alligator around the house. They looked and looked. Finally

Holds Meeting

A meeting of the Pickaway County Heart Assn. was held Monday at the home of Kathy Tomlinson, 830 Atwater Ave.

Awards were presented to Dr. Michael Geron, general chairman for the 1977 Heart Fund Drive; Charles Pritchard, county chairman; Richard Fischer, city chairman; Drexel Poling, business chairman.

This year's campaign netted almost $11,000. Five year awards were given to Kathy Tomlinson, Dr. Charles Hedges and James Conrad. A President's Award was presented to Robert McKelvey.

Joan Eller and Harold Hewitt of the YMCA discussed their PULSE program, stressing the need for evaluation before an exercise regime is started. They explained the Y is now involved in doing these evaluations. Since the program is in complete agreement with the goals of the Heart Assn., an official endorsement of this project was given.

The slate of officers for the coming year includes: Kathy Tomlinson, president; Lou Deal, vice president; Carol Geron, secretary; James Conrad, treasurer.

Records Reported By Turnpike Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Records for total revenue and toll income were set in May, the Ohio Turnpike Commission reported Tuesday.

Over the Memorial Day weekend, an estimated 435,000 vehicles traveled the roadway, generating revenue estimated to be $627,000. Total revenues for the month were estimated at $4.2 million, or 6.7 per cent over the same period in 1976.

Toll income for May was estimated at $3.5 million, a seven per cent increase over last year.

they found a lady, who said she would take him.

The lady ran a drive-in restaurant next to the highway. She dug a pit beside the restaurant, put the mean old alligator in the pit, and put up a sign on the highway:

ALLIGATOR.

For many years people stopped and peeked into the pit at the mean old alligator the country boys had found.

One day the Interstate Highway builders came to the lady and told her she would have to move her drive-in restaurant to another place. What would become of the mean old alligator?

The lady phoned her friend, Charles Gideon, who was the mayor of Ponchatoula and known far and wide as a wise solver of problems.

"Mayor," the lady said, "do you want an alligator?"

"Yes," replied the mayor.

The mayor sent a truck. The driver returned with the alligator and asked where to put it.

"Put it in the city swimming pool," the mayor said.

The pool leaked and had been closed for repairs. But a tall fence surrounded it and the gate was locked. A safe place for a mean old alligator.

The alligator seemed content swimming around in the half-filled city pool behind the fence. Certainly it was a better life than living in a pit.

The mayor fed the alligator chickens. It liked chickens.

One morning a city employee, on his way to work, spied an alligator crossing the road. He phoned the mayor.

"Mayor," he said, "do you want another alligator?"

"Why not?" said the mayor.

The city employee tossed the new alligator in the city pool and went about his city work. The new alligator was smaller than the mean old alligator. The mean old alligator was 11 feet long.

Next morning the mayor went to look over his alligator collection. He made a startling discovery. Swimming in the city pool was only one alligator. The big one.

"Why you mean old alligator," the mayor scolded.

The mayor noticed something else, too. He noticed that the children of the city gathered at the pool every day to watch the mean old alligator. They sat on the bleachers outside the fence with their elbows on their knees and their chins in their palms. They just sat there, watching.

The mayor had a brainstorm.

If Louisiana children like to watch a mean old alligator, thought the mayor, how much more would children from other states, who have never seen an alligator, enjoy it? That mean old alligator, the mayor decided, could attract wealthy tourists to our fine city.

The mayor ordered a cage built right in the middle of the town. A roomy cage, with a pool of clean water.

Strong men roped and tied the mean old alligator and brought him to the cage. Then the mayor put up a sign on the highway:

ALLIGATOR.

Tourists came to peek, but the Town Council grumbled.

How, wondered the mayor, can I raise the money to pay for this fine alligator cage and for all the chickens that mean old pretty alligator eats and keep the Town Council off my back?

Piranhas Prepare For Coming Season

GETTING READY — Coach Jim Shea keeps a watchful eye on his Circleville Piranha Swim Team as they begin practice for the 1977 season. The Piranhas will be going after their fourth consecutive Mt. Pleasant League championship. The Piranhas first meet will be June 23 when they host Newark.

The Circleville Piranha Swim Team, coached by Jim Shea is preparing to defend its three consecutive Mt. Pleasant League titles when they open their swim season against Newark June 23, at the local pool.

Having won the league titles in 1970-72-74-75 and 1976, they are the first team in the league to ever win three consecutive titles.

Approximately 90 children showed up for the first outside practice Monday at the Ted Lewis Park Pool.

The team opened practice in mid January with practices at the Chillicothe YMCA, however the energy crisis curtailed practice time as the pool was closed to conserve energy.

Coaches for this years team will be Dick Penn and Jo Liggett for the eight and unders. Sue McCrady will be coaching the nine through 12 age group and Jim Shea will be in charge of the 13 through 18 age group.

To sum it all up Jim said "On paper we look real good, but a lot of the older kids will be working and gone on vacation part of the summer, so we can't count on them for points at every meet."

Eastwick Says Trade Near

NEW YORK (AP) — Relief pitcher Rawly Eastwick, the only unsigned player on the Cincinnati roster, said he has been informed by the Reds that they are actively seeking to trade him before the June 15 deadline.

Reds President Bob Howsam said, "We don't discuss trades. We never have and we don't plan to."

"Their offer is not satisfactory in any way," said Eastwick, who has not made a counter proposal. He said he is seeking a long term contract.

However, Eastwick indicated the door is still open. "I might have something important to say in the next few days," he said.

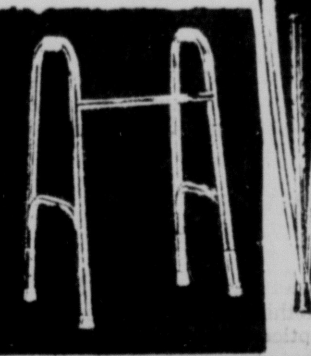

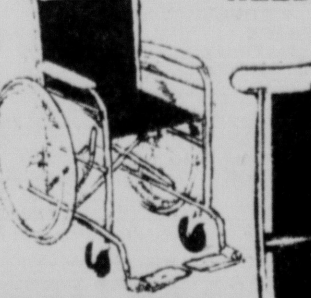

Eastwick was the top relief pitcher in the National League last season with an 11-5 record, 26 saves and a 2.08 earn run average.

Eastwick charged the Reds with not allowing him to pitch enough for his lower record this season. He is 1-2 with seven saves and a 2.68 ERA.

Eastwick charged the Reds are not playing him because he has not signed. Manager Sparky Anderson denied the allegation.

"I've got to work four times a week. I'm not throwing hard," said Eastwick.

Piranhas Prepare For Coming Season

GETTING READY — Coach Jim Shea keeps a watchful eye on his Circleville Piranha Swim Team as they begin practice for the 1977 season. The Piranhas will be going after their fourth consecutive Mt. Pleasant League championship. The Piranhas first meet will be June 23 when they host Newark.

The Circleville Piranha Swim Team, coached by Jim Shea is preparing to defend its three consecutive Mt. Pleasant League titles when they open their swim season against Newark June 23, at the local pool.

Having won the league titles in 1970-72-74-75 and 1976, they are the first team in the league to ever win three consecutive titles.

Approximately 90 children showed up for the first outside practice

Monday at the Ted Lewis Park Pool. The team opened practice in mid January with practices at the Chillicothe YMCA, however the energy crisis curtailed practice time as the pool was closed to conserve energy.

Coaches for this years team will be Dick Penn and Jo Liggett for the eight and unders. Sue McCrady will be coaching the nine through 12 age group and Jim Shea will be in charge of the 13 through 18 age group.

Circleville during the 1975-76 and 1976-77 seasons, will assume his new duties this fall at Fostoria as well as teach social studies.

Fostoria is located on Route 23 north of Columbus and sets in the counties, Wood, Seneca and Hancock.

It is a large Class AA school and competes in the Great Lakes League which consists of all Class AAA schools except Fostoria.

It will be a building year for Bailey as Fostoria only had two wins during the 1976-77 season.

"It will be a tremendous challenge to build a successful basketball program, especially in a AAA league, but it should be fun and I am looking forward to it," Bailey commented.

In his two years at Circleville, Bailey's teams compiled a 35-10 record. They were Regional runnersup in 1975-76 and with one starter back went on to win the Sectional championship.

"My family and I enjoyed our stay in Circleville very much. It is a fine community and we were glad to be a part of it," Bailey stated. In basketball, I will most remember how hard our kids played and how much they improved each season."

Billingham Stymies Mets; Reds Win 5-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Billingham has the New York Mets stymied.

The Cincinnati Reds' pitcher has not lost to the Mets since July 22, 1975.

He raised his career record to 11-4 against New York, beating the Mets 5-0 Wednesday night. It was his first shutout this season.

Billingham, in winning his seventh game this season in 10 decisions, struck out five and scattered eight hits in going the route for the second time.

His performance halted the Mets' four-game winning streak.

"Jack can have two different ball games," said Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench. "When he gets tired, it's easier for me. He's not over-throwing. He's actually throwing a sinker. Most of the time, he just goes with the sinker and lets the ball work for itself."

Cincinnati got all the runs it needed when George Foster hit a three-run homer off loser Jerry Koosman, 4-6, in the first inning.

"I threw him a curve on the first pitch and he took it," said Koosman. "It was a ball. I threw him a curve on the second pitch and he hit it out of the park. I don't feel I did anything wrong with him."

Joe Torre, the Mets' player-manager, was ejected by umpire Ed Montague for arguing a call at first base in the eighth inning. It was Torre's first ejection since becoming manager May 31.

"I called him a blow-off, that's not abusive language, is it?" asked Torre. "I guess somebody called him that when he was a kid and it stuck with him."

Despite the loss, Torre remains the winningest manager in percentage in the National League since his debut. His Mets have a 7-2 record for his nine days on the job. A 6-3 showing by the San Francisco Giants during the same period is the best any other NL club has done.

Foster drove his 12th homer of the year into the left field stands after Ken Griffey and Joe Morgan had walked.

The Reds added a run in the third when Morgan singled, moved to second on a balk by Koosman and scored on Bench's double to left that was misjudged by Dave Kingman.

In the sixth, Cincinnati picked up another run on a single by Dave Concepcion, a walk to Dan Dreissen, and Cesar Geronimo's single.

New York threatened in the fourth when Felix Millan led off with a double and, after two out, Ed Kranepool and John Stearns walked, filling the bases. But Billingham retired Lee Mazzilli on a grounder to second, ending the inning.

Owner Says Ingratitude Marks Pro Sports

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

What can be more insidious than man's ingratitude to man?

"It's a question I have to ask myself every day," says Bill Daniels, Denver communications pioneer who took a $4 million bath in a naive venture into big time professional sports — particularly basketball and boxing.

"I am not bitter, just disillusioned," added the energetic head of Daniels Properties, Inc., which has a network of cable television subscribers in 14 cities and five states. "I learned a lesson. I found that faith and trust are scarce commodities in today's inflated sports market."

"Most athletes are out for everything they can get. Few have a compunction about keeping their word. Contracts and understandings are just things made to wiggle out of."

"For me, it has been a shattering experience."

The experience mainly encompassed the Utah Stars of the now defunct American Basketball Association and two ranking heavyweights, ex-convict Ron Lyle and the recently beaten "white hope," Duane Bobick.

"Lyle was like a brother to me," Daniels said. "I took an interest in him while he was still in prison. He had great potential as a fighter. I saw possibilities of rehabilitating him on the strength of his boxing ability."

"I used all the influence I had to get him pardoned by the governor of Colorado. I promised him a shot at the title. I fulfilled that promise. Ron had a lead on Muhammad Ali on every official card until he got careless in the 11th round and was knocked out."

"Then one day he came up to me and said he wanted out of our contract. It was like a son saying, 'Well, dad, I don't like you any more. I am going away.'"

The experience with Bobick was every bit as disheartening, Daniels said.

"Before the 1972 Olympics, everybody was promising Duane a Cadillac and $200,000 bonus to sign after the Games," he related. "They were sure he would win and be a big pro drawing card. But he lost and, when he returned home, he found that all those fancy offers had disappeared. Nobody wanted to talk to him."

"That's when I signed him. I gave him good training and coaching, paying him $1,000 a month expenses. Then, after his 24th fight, he came to me and said he wanted to go to Joe Frazier."

"I figure I lost $70,000 on Bobick alone."

The communications executive took his biggest bath in the old ABA, a venture that he figures cost him close to $4 million.

"The Stars were in the cellar some 17 or 18 games out of first place in 1970 when I brought the franchise from Los Angeles to Utah," he said. "We made the playoffs. Then we set a first-year attendance record for pro basketball."

"From there, we went on to win the ABA championship. I thought something was wrong when our star, Bill Sharman, failed to attend the victory party. Two weeks later he advised us he was leaving the team to join the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA."

"The ethical structure of sports is decaying," Daniels insisted. "The courts haven't made a single favorable decision to the owners. They're killing pro sports. A player's word means nothing."

Kalvin Adams Choice Of Montreal Expos

NEW YORK (AP) — Give the Montreal Expos credit for this much — they know a good prospect when they see him.

The Expos liked Calvin Adams enough to make him the No. 1 over-all selection in baseball's amateur free agent draft last January and even though they were unable to sign the Central Arizona Junior College third baseman-outfielder, that didn't change their opinion of the young man's ability.

So, when the Expos' turn came up in Wednesday's secondary draft of players previously selected but not signed, they came right back and picked Adams again.

Adams hit .415 in 83 games with seven homers and 77 runs batted in this season and was the second Central Arizona product to go in the first round of the secondary phase. Teammate Frank Ferroni, a left-handed pitcher, was the opening selection, chosen by the Minnesota Twins.

"They're both ready to go out and play," said Coach Ken Richardson. "They're in the same situation. Another year of baseball at this level won't really help them that much."

Adams was an all-around man for

Central Arizona. Besides third base and the outfield, he even pitched and caught on occasion.

"He has outstanding potential as a hitter," said Richardson. "He has a big league bat."

Richardson said Adams stayed in school after last January's draft because the Montreal contract offer wasn't good enough to lure him away. "But he wants to go and he's ready to play," the coach said.

Ferroni was drafted in January by the Cleveland Indians but didn't think he was ready for professional baseball at that point. He preferred a year of junior college experience and pitched 100 innings for Richardson's division champions, posting an 8-4 record and 2.79 earned run average in 16 games.

"He was our stopper," said Richardson. "He has average major league velocity and a pretty good curve ball."

Braves Top Rochester In IL, 8-7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond regained their winning form after a one-game losing streak as Pete Varney ripped a game winning two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to lead the Braves past Rochester 8-7 in International League baseball action Wednesday night.

In other games Tidewater edged Toledo 3-2 and Pawtucket downed Charleston 9-8. Syracuse at Columbus fell victim to a rain storm.

Varney, near the top of the league with a .350-plus batting average, had the second two-run homer for the Braves. In the fifth catcher Dale Murphy added his own over the fence shot with one on.

The Braves, beginning to move after a slow start this year, were beaten Tuesday night by the Red Wings after having won six in a row.

The Red Wings' Rafe Liranzo had two four baggers for the losers. He also added a double and a single in five trips to the plate.

In Norfolk, Va., the Tidewater Tides set the Toledo Mud Hens back on the losing track with a 3-2 win over the hapless Hens.

"I used all the influence I had to get him pardoned by the governor of Colorado. I promised him a shot at the title. I fulfilled that promise. Ron had a lead on Muhammad Ali on every official card until he got careless in the 11th round and was knocked out."

"Then one day he came up to me and said he wanted out of our contract. It was like a son saying, 'Well, dad, I don't like you any more. I am going away.'"

The experience with Bobick was every bit as disheartening, Daniels said.

"Before the 1972 Olympics, everybody was promising Duane a Cadillac and $200,000 bonus to sign after the Games," he related. "They were sure he would win and be a big pro drawing card. But he lost and, when he returned home, he found that all those fancy offers had disappeared. Nobody wanted to talk to him."

"That's when I signed him. I gave him good training and coaching, paying him $1,000 a month expenses. Then, after his 24th fight, he came to me and said he wanted to go to Joe Frazier."

"I figure I lost $70,000 on Bobick alone."

The communications executive took his biggest bath in the old ABA, a venture that he figures cost him close to $4 million.

"The Stars were in the cellar some 17 or 18 games out of first place in 1970 when I brought the franchise from Los Angeles to Utah," he said. "We made the playoffs. Then we set a first-year attendance record for pro basketball."

"From there, we went on to win the ABA championship. I thought something was wrong when our star, Bill Sharman, failed to attend the victory party. Two weeks later he advised us he was leaving the team to join the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA."

"The ethical structure of sports is decaying," Daniels insisted. "The courts haven't made a single favorable decision to the owners. They're killing pro sports. A player's word means nothing."

Kalvin Adams Choice Of Montreal Expos

NEW YORK (AP) — Give the Montreal Expos credit for this much — they know a good prospect when they see him.

The Expos liked Calvin Adams enough to make him the No. 1 over-all selection in baseball's amateur free agent draft last January and even though they were unable to sign the Central Arizona Junior College third baseman-outfielder, that didn't change their opinion of the young man's ability.

So, when the Expos' turn came up in Wednesday's secondary draft of players previously selected but not signed, they came right back and picked Adams again.

Adams hit .415 in 83 games with seven homers and 77 runs batted in this season and was the second Central Arizona product to go in the first round of the secondary phase. Teammate Frank Ferroni, a left-handed pitcher, was the opening selection, chosen by the Minnesota Twins.

"They're both ready to go out and play," said Coach Ken Richardson. "They're in the same situation. Another year of baseball at this level won't really help them that much."

Adams was an all-around man for

Central Arizona. Besides third base and the outfield, he even pitched and caught on occasion.

"He has outstanding potential as a hitter," said Richardson. "He has a big league bat."

Richardson said Adams stayed in school after last January's draft because the Montreal contract offer wasn't good enough to lure him away. "But he wants to go and he's ready to play," the coach said.

Ferroni was drafted in January by the Cleveland Indians but didn't think he was ready for professional baseball at that point. He preferred a year of junior college experience and pitched 100 innings for Richardson's division champions, posting an 8-4 record and 2.79 earned run average in 16 games.

"He was our stopper," said Richardson. "He has average major league velocity and a pretty good curve ball."

Braves Top Rochester In IL, 8-7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond regained their winning form after a one-game losing streak as Pete Varney ripped a game winning two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to lead the Braves past Rochester 8-7 in International League baseball action Wednesday night.

In other games Tidewater edged Toledo 3-2 and Pawtucket downed Charleston 9-8. Syracuse at Columbus fell victim to a rain storm.

Varney, near the top of the league with a .350-plus batting average, had the second two-run homer for the Braves. In the fifth catcher Dale Murphy added his own over the fence shot with one on.

The Braves, beginning to move after a slow start this year, were beaten Tuesday night by the Red Wings after having won six in a row.

The Red Wings' Rafe Liranzo had two four baggers for the losers. He also added a double and a single in five trips to the plate.

In Norfolk, Va., the Tidewater Tides set the Toledo Mud Hens back on the losing track with a 3-2 win over the hapless Hens.

Aces Top Vikings In Pony Contest

Amanda-Clearcreek topped Teays Valley No. 1, 16-4, Wednesday in a Tri County Pony League contest.

George Conrad hurled the win as he scattered five hits, six walks and fanned five. Don Lee was on the hill for Teays Valley.

Brent Wharton had a triple and double for the Aces, while Conrad, Jim Davis and Fred Destidio each had a double.

Tim Bainer rapped two hits for Teays Valley.

The Aces are now 3-1 for the season and be at Teays Valley No. 2 Friday while Teays Valley No. 1 will be at Westfall in Pony tilts.

Expos Making Move In NL East

By BEN THOMAS
AP Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos, with Steve Rogers the National League's runaway strikeout leader, have a five-game victory streak, and are preventing the resurgent New York Mets from climbing out of the East Division basement and overtaking them.

The Mets have been the hottest team in the league the past nine days since Joe Torre became manager, winning seven and losing only two, but the Expos also have played well — with a 5-3 record for the same period.

While Cincinnati stopped the Mets 5-0 Wednesday night, Rogers' six-hitter gave the Expos a 6-0 triumph over the Atlanta Braves. It was the 27-year-old right-hander's eighth victory in 12 decisions.

The Expos, incidentally, have not lost since dropping three in a row to the Mets in Torre's managerial debut.

The Montreal victory, coupled with the Mets' defeat, put the Expos two games ahead of New York and nine games back of the division-leading Chicago Cubs.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, West Division leaders, beat the Cubs 4-2 while the San Francisco Giants edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2, the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the San Diego Padres 3-0 and the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Houston Astros 3-2 in other NL action.

"He's just brilliant," Expos Manager Dick Williams said of his pitching ace, who has a nifty 1.77 earned run average to go with his 90 strikeouts.

Warren Cromartie's 21st double, tops in the NL, and Chris Speier's homer, his first this year, helped the Expos. Andy Messersmith, 4-2, took the loss.

Reds 5, Mets 0
Jack Billingham's first shutout of the season, on an eight-hitter, and George Foster's three-run homer helped Cincinnati end the Mets' four-game winning streak. Billingham, who has not lost to the Mets since July 22, 1975, raised his career record against New York to 11-4.

Phillies 3, Astros 2

Jay Johnstone had not had a hit in 13 trips to the plate until the fifth inning of Wednesday night's game between Philadelphia and Houston. Then, with the Astros ahead 2-1, the Phillies' outfielder connected for his second homer of the year, driving in winning pitcher Steve Carlton, 8-3.

Giants 3, Pirates 2
With many of his relatives from New Brighton, Pa., a Pittsburgh suburb, cheering him on, San Francisco rookie Jack Clark hit a solo homer and doubled home the winning run, giving San Francisco a sweep of its three-game series against the Pirates, losers in 12 of their last 18 games. His homer came in the second inning off Jim Rooker.

Cardinals 3, Padres 0
Ken Reitz drove in two runs with a double and a triple as St. Louis, behind Eric Rasmussen's six-hitter, stopped the Padres in a rain-plagued game, delayed at the start for 20 minutes and again for 50 minutes midway through the seventh inning.

Reitz doubled in the second inning and tripled in the fourth.

Ryan Great; Still Gets No Win

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Nolan Ryan spent Wednesday night striking out 19 Toronto batters in 10 innings, but all he got to show for it was a no-decision.

"That's the best I have ever seen Nolan pitch," said California Manager Norm Sherry. "It was as easy as he's ever thrown. That's the way Sandy Koufax used to pitch, nice and easy."

Ryan, who tied a career high with the 19 strikeouts, was not around when Bobby Grich led off the 13th inning with a home run, giving California a 2-1 victory over the Blue Jays. The right-hander with the blazing fastball was relieved by Dave LaRoche in the 11th and left the park before the game ended.

Ryan struck out 18 in nine innings but was trailing 1-0 until Bobby Bonds' two-out single in the ninth tied the score. Both Ryan and Toronto starter Jesse Jefferson carried no-hitters into the sixth inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota rallied and edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings on Larry Hisle's second home run of the game, Boston erupted for 11 runs in the second inning and routed Baltimore 14-5, Texas beat Chicago 6-1 behind Bert Blyleven's five-hitter, the New York Yankees used four home runs in blasting Milwaukee 9-2, Seattle upended Detroit 3-2 and Oakland defeated Cleveland 3-2.

Twins 9, Royals 8, 10 innings
Hisle took over the major league runs batted in lead with 52 after collecting four RBI against the Royals. He hit a three-run homer in the first in addition to his decisive shot opening the 10th.

Hisle's winning homer came after teammate Glenn Borgmann tied the score 8-8 with a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth.

John Mayberry hit two homers for the Royals, who fell seven games behind the first-place Twins in the AL West.

Red Sox 14, Orioles 5
The Red Sox' 11-run second was their biggest inning of the year but not the biggest of the season at Fenway Park. Cleveland scored 13 runs in one inning in April.

The one home run of the game was hit by Butch Hobson, a three-run shot in the big second.

Rangers 6, White Sox 1
Blyleven broke a personal five-game losing streak in beating the White Sox. Blyleven, 5-7, gave up a lead-off homer to Ralph Garr in the opening inning, then settled down to an eight-strikeout performance. Toby Harrah and Tom Grieve homered for the Rangers.

Yankees 9, Brewers 2
New York took over first place in the AL East by one game behind Mike Torrez' fivehitter. Torrez, 7-4, received home run support from Bucky Dent, who slammed two homers, giving him four in three games, Reggie Jackson, who also belted his fourth homer in three games, and Roy White.

Seattle 3, Tigers 2
Carlos Lopez' two-run homer in the eighth gave the Mariners their victory. Ruppert Jones also homered in support of Mike Kekich's strong four innings of relief pitching.

A's 3, Indians 2
Mike Jorgensen's two-run double in the seventh won the game for Oakland, which snapped Dennis Eckersley's three-game winning streak. Eckersley had allowed just one hit in his previous 23 innings of pitching.

Bald Eagles Barely Holding Own

By JIM DAUBEL
For The Associated Press

Once again the report on Ohio's remnant bald eagle population is bittersweet: The regal birds are holding their own, but just barely.

There has been only one successful breeding pair this spring in Northwestern Ohio, the last outpost for the national bird in the Buckeye State.

Last year six active nests were counted by local eagle watchers. This year the number dropped to five.

Two young eagles were fledged in 1976, both from one nest in the Ottawa National Wildlife Refuge west of Port Clinton on Lake Erie.

The Ottawa pair has been the most prolific in recent years, fledging five young in three of the four years they have nested in the refuge. They were unsuccessful this spring, however.

This year one pair in Sandusky County produced a single offspring which has not yet left the nest.

The recent history of bald eagles in Ohio does not point optimistically toward the future.

Four eaglets were fledged in 1974 and 1973, none in 1972 and 1971, one in 1970, two in 1969 and three in 1968. The greatest production in recent years was in 1965 when five young were brought off nests.

There is more bad news than good in the report on eagle activities since last year.

For one thing, an adult bird was killed, apparently when it flew into a high tension wire. Eagles mate for life and that death left the partner alone during this nesting season. It may find another mate but there is no assurance that it will return to Northern Ohio.

Normally, Ohio eagles migrate south if the winter is severe enough to freeze nearby Lake Erie and the Sandusky Bay marshes on which the birds depend for their principal diet of dead fish. But they return in February or

March to the same nesting areas.

This year's only successful mating was between an adult female and a two-year-old male, possibly her son, who had not even acquired the distinctive white head and tail feathers of the fully mature bald eagle.

Adding to pessimism this year was a report on the laboratory analysis of an eagle egg taken from an unsuccessful nest last year. The egg contained high concentrations of three pesticides, any one of which could have prevented development of the embryo.

Pesticides are only part of the

Hawk Gives Eagle Tips

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The hawk that taught Georgina the eagle to be a mother has been returned to the wilds and George the eagle is back with its mate at the Columbus Zoo.

Assistant zoo director Michael July said state wildlife officials returned the red-tailed hawk, now about 8½ weeks old, to an area near Lebanon.

Officials had taken it and another hawk from their nest when the hawks were about 5 to 7 days old, the same size as baby eagles.

It was hoped they would raise parental instincts in George and Georgina who have failed two years in a row to hatch any eggs.

"Georgina did a beautiful job," July said. "We know she'll raise an eagle if she ever is successful in hatching one out."

George, however, flunked the course. He was removed from the cage after he apparently ate one of his foster children.

eagle's problem in Ohio. Its habitat is shrinking as woodlots are cleared. The high water of the past few years has killed many prime trees suitable for nesting sites.

Jose Saint-Victor Signs With Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Syracuse lineman Jose Saint-Victor, a native of Haiti, has signed a National Football League contract with the Cincinnati Bengals, the club announced Wednesday.

The 6-foot-4, 258-pounder was an eighth round draft choice last month. He was a three-year starter at Syracuse. Saint-Victor becomes the sixth Bengal draftee under contract among 18 players.

General Manager Paul Brown said Saint-Victor, 23, will be converted to guard.

Paul Baron Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Paul Baron was the winner by a neck in the feature eighth race at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.

The horse, driven by J.J. Weller, covered the distance in 2:05.01 and paid $7.80, $4.20 and $3. Second was O K Mack, $8 and $3.40, and Big Don was third, paying $2.60.

The daily double 4-4 of Miss Leahs Time and Drip Dry paid $41.40 and the 5-4-7 trifecta paid $141.

Attendance was 3,532 and the handle was $231,511.

Don Hahn of the New York Mets holds the record for times at bat in a World Series. He had seven official times at bat in the second game of the 1973 classic against Oakland.

Jean Cruguet Ready For Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Jean Cruguet, who has ridden top horses on both sides of the Atlantic but who has ridden in a shadow in the area of public attention, says he is not concerned about any celebrity status he might achieve because of Seattle Slew.

"Ten years ago maybe," the Frenchman said Wednesday morning at Belmont Park, the site of Seattle Slew's bid for the Triple Crown which will come Saturday in the Belmont Stakes.

"When you're 20 you look for the glory. When you're past 30 you forget the glory. You like it but you look for the bank."

But should Seattle Slew become the first unbeaten Triple Crown champion, a feat he is a strong favorite to accomplish, then Cruguet automatically will be racing's man of the hour.

The Slew was to be entered today along with an expected six opponents including Run Dusty Run, second in the Kentucky Derby and third in the Preakness; Sanhedrin, third in the Preakness, and Iron Constitution, second in the Preakness, for the $150,000-added Belmont which will go off at 5:38 p.m. EDT.

The CBS telecast of the 109th running of the 1½-mile classic will be from 5-6 p.m.

Cruguet, who has been aboard Seattle Slew for all eight of his victories, has known major disappointments in his career.

In 1971 he was headed for the Derby

as the rider of Hoist the Flag, the early favorite to win that famed race. But while working out for the Gotham Stakes, a Derby prep, Hoist the Flag broke a leg and never raced again, although he was saved for stud.

The New York Giants, playing in New Jersey's Meadowlands Stadium, led the NFL in attendance in 1976 with 527,798.

Mickey Mantle was a switch-hitter but he batted right-handed against right-handed pitching on eight occasions. The best he got was a walk.

"Ten years ago maybe," the Frenchman said Wednesday morning at Belmont Park, the site of Seattle Slew's bid for the Triple Crown which will come Saturday in the Belmont Stakes.

"When you're 20 you look for the glory. When you're past 30 you forget the glory. You like it but you look for the bank."

But should Seattle Slew become the first unbeaten Triple Crown champion, a feat he is a strong favorite to accomplish, then Cruguet automatically will be racing's man of the hour.

The Slew was to be entered today along with an expected six opponents including Run Dusty Run, second in the Kentucky Derby and third in the Preakness; Sanhedrin, third in the Preakness, and Iron Constitution, second in the Preakness, for the $150,000-added Belmont which will go off at 5:38 p.m. EDT.

The CBS telecast of the 109th running of the 1½-mile classic will be from 5-6 p.m.

Cruguet, who has been aboard Seattle Slew for all eight of his victories, has known major disappointments in his career.

In 1971 he was headed for the Derby

as the rider of Hoist the Flag, the early favorite to win that famed race. But while working out for the Gotham Stakes, a Derby prep, Hoist the Flag broke a leg and never raced again, although he was saved for stud.

The New York Giants, playing in New Jersey's Meadowlands Stadium, led the NFL in attendance in 1976 with 527,798.

Mickey Mantle was a switch-hitter but he batted right-handed against right-handed pitching on eight occasions. The best he got was a walk.

Baseball At A GlanceDon't Eat The Daffodils*By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS*American League*East*West*Wednesday's Results*Thursday's Games*Friday's Games*National League*East*West*Wednesday's Results*Thursday's Games*Friday's Games

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eating daffodils may be hazardous to your health. These and many popular flowers, ornamental shrubs and colorful weeds are poisonous, says National Geographic.

Young children are particularly vulnerable, but even adults often become unthinking nibblers of poisonous plants. "For many it's just sort of an automatic thing to do," said one naturalist.

"You snap off a blade of grass or whatever and absent-mindedly stick it in your mouth."

Commonplace plants like wisteria, Carolina jasmine, azaleas, rhododendron, and even honeysuckle have poisonous parts. The bright berries of privet hedges, pokeweed, ornamental yew trees, mistletoe and night shade can be dangerous if not deadly. Glossy leaves of English ivy or pionsettia plants or a twig of oleander may be fatal.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A less stimulating day than you may wish, but you can cover a lot of ground by planning wisely and eliminating all nonessentials from your program.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Exercise your capability to keep the good things going, to preserve order and to maintain a high degree of attainment. Straightforward action will command respect.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Stellar influences stimulate your ingenuity, good humor, affability and precision. Anything less than your best won't give others the picture of the REAL you.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Pay no attention to dissenters and pessimists. Go about your activities with good will and a bit of finesse. You can have an unusually satisfactory day.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Continuing good solar influences stimulate efforts and top-level thinking. Check possibilities for making sound investments.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Your intuition should be strong now. Just double-check to make sure you are not forgetting small details, and all should go well. Romance favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Good planetary influences! A time to "dress up" old ideas and methods and make them more practical. Your artistry and creativity stimulated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Don't try to buck present trends or you may find yourself at unhappy variance with associates who could be helpful. Scrutinize all offerings carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Past achievements can be correctly appraised now - for what to do and what NOT to do in the future. Your ingenuity will show how to capitalize on experience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): With a little added vigor and determination, and a well-arranged schedule, you can propel yourself further toward ultimate aims. Emphasize optimism!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Capitalize on your artistic talents and handle your obligations in a productive way and you will reap fine returns. This day has many fine advantages, benefits.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Planets fairly generous, but here and there are traps to beset the off-guard individual. Be firm about going forward, but as diligent in detecting flaws.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with glowing vitality, a great love of life, unusual versatility and adaptability. You are gregarious by nature and your personality is such that it attracts others to you almost at first glance. On the minus side: impulsiveness, hypersensitivity, extravagance and a tendency to scatter energies. You have a lively imagination and a flair for the dramatic; would make an excellent writer, trial lawyer or theatrical entertainer. You are a born leader but your interests are too varied to keep you at one cause or interest long enough to exert such leadership. You love travel, the outdoors, animals and are generous to a fault. Develop your originality and love of knowledge and never settle for the mediocre when the extraordinary is within your grasp. Birthdate of: Judy Garland, singer; Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Economics is properly called the "dismal science," but a new Public Broadcasting System series on economic thought manages to make the subject both absorbing and understandable.

The 13-part series, "The Age of Uncertainty," was produced by the British Broadcasting Corp. in association with Los Angeles TV station KCET and the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. It is being aired on successive Thursdays over the Public Broadcasting System network.

The series, written by and starring Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, follows the same theme as previous BBC "television books" such as Alistair Cook's "Civilisation" and Jacob Bronowski's "The Ascent of Man." The 69-year-old Galbraith, who retired in 1975 after 41 years of teaching economics at Harvard University, first wrote "The Age of Uncertainty" in book form and then adapted each chapter to a 55-minute television show.

"Even men who consider themselves to be practical and pragmatic are usually the slaves of some defunct economist," Galbraith says in advancing his main contention — that the work economists do lives on after them.

Galbraith's wit is evident throughout the series. In one show, "The Big Corporation," he creates an imaginary multinational corporation called Unified Global Enterprises — UGE. He contrasts the "Robber Baron" capitalism of American industrialists like Carnegie or Mellon with faceless modern corporations and concludes that today, "There are no great men, only great committees."

Were it not for Galbraith's commanding presence, the ingenious stage settings and locations used in the series might well steal the show. To illustrate Thorstein Veblen's theory of "conspicuous consumption," the producers recreate a formal banquet given by a 19th century New York society matron for 100 of the best dogs. Galbraith and the BBC spent three years shooting in more than 30 countries to get such scenes as the lanky economist discussing famine from an Irish potato field and high society from a Newport, R.I., mansion.

Galbraith contends that "The Age of Uncertainty" began with World War I, an event depicted by a three-dimensional map of Europe across which the opposing parties battle, occasionally tossing cannonballs at each other. Before WWI, Galbraith says, "the capitalists were certain of the success of capitalism, the Socialists of socialism, the imperialists of colonialism, and the ruling classes knew they were meant to rule. Little of this certainty has survived."

Spring Nationals Start Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Shirley Muldowney and Don Prudhomme were favorites in the 13th annual National Hot Rod Association Spring Nationals which gets under way today at National Trail Raceway.

The $273,400 event, part of NHRA's 10-race series, will crown champions in eight different categories.

Qualifying begins Thursday and continues through Saturday. Quarter mile qualifying runs and preliminary class eliminations will reduce an original field of 600 cars to 170 for Sunday's finals.

Cultural History

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Portrait Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution is currently presenting an exhibition of documents and photographs covering more than a century of American Cultural history.

"Artists and Writers" illustrates the close personal relationships that existed between such painters, sculptors and authors as artist Jerome Blum, and author Sherwood Anderson, of 19th-century sculptor Hiram Powers and his friend, the poet William Cullen Bryant. The exhibit will remain on view through December.

Ishtar was the Babylonian and Assyrian goddess of fertility and love.

Mrs. Carter Hears Of Rights Denial

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — Two American missionaries who said they were beaten in a Brazilian jail told their story to Rosalynn Carter, and the First Lady expressed her sympathy and promised to tell her husband about it.

Father Lawrence Rosebaugh, 42, a Roman Catholic, and Thomas Capuano, 24, a Mennonite from Altamont, N.Y., told Mrs. Carter they were arrested last month while distributing food to the poor.

They said they were stripped naked, thrown into a crowded cell and not allowed to contact the U.S. Consulate for three days, during which time they were kicked and knocked around by prison trustees. They said they were released on the fourth day after being allowed to call the consulate.

"The list of indignities is really endless," Capuano told a news conference Wednesday on the consulate lawn after the meeting with Mrs. Carter. "I felt myself being turned into an animal."

Capuano said Mrs. Carter "came across as very sincere, and I got the feeling that she was really going to carry our message back — not just our message but the message of all those that are suffering still in that same jail cell."

Mrs. Carter posed for photographs with the two bearded men dressed in work clothes and told reporters: "I have listened to their experience and sympathize with them and have a personal message to take back to my husband."

The announcement that Mrs. Carter planned to meet with the men, made during her flight from Brasilia to Recife earlier Wednesday, came as a surprise.

At a news conference in Brasilia Tuesday, Mrs. Carter said the U.S. government was concerned about the incident. But her press secretary, Mary Hoyt, said Mrs. Carter had no plans to meet with the men. Later she said a meeting might be arranged.

There was no immediate reaction from Brazil's 13-year-old military government.

Medicaid Cutback Blasted By Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "It's like being run over by a truck without knowing it," said Gov. James A. Rhodes of threats—still unofficial—to cut Ohio's third-quarter 1977 Medicaid allotment by one-third.

Rhodes told reporters Wednesday that he is awaiting official word from Washington about the threatened cut in long-term institutional care, and all he knew about it was what is contained in a letter he received from the office of Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio.

The letter, distributed in Congress by Rep. Michael T. Blouin, D-Iowa, stated that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had decided to enforce provisions of the utilization review section of the Medicaid law against 19 states.

That section requires states to notify HEW that they have required adequate certification of a patient's need for institutional care, development of a plan for care, independent review of patient progress and yearly medical reviews of the level of care.

If HEW chooses to enforce the provision, which Rhodes said has not been done since it went into effect in 1973, Ohio could lose $6.94 million in Medicaid funding.

"They've never enforced the law," Rhodes said. "We have a legal case." Rhodes indicated that the 19 states could fight the cutbacks on the grounds they amount to selective enforcement.

"We will try to take every precaution so we don't hurt people on

Rhodes called the funding cut threat "overkill... someplace in (the federal) bureaucracy."

In a letter written Tuesday, Blouin asked HEW Secretary Califano to delay any decision on funding cuts until Congress completes action on legislation which could affect the Medicaid law.

"We are particularly concerned about the impact which these penalties could have on Medicaid patients in our states," Blouin said. "Obviously, they have done no wrong, yet they are precisely the people who will suffer even more if the cutbacks in funding take place."

Of the 19 states identified by Blouin as targets for third-quarter Medicaid cutbacks, Ohio ranks fifth. New York, first, would lose $53.4 million, followed by California, $15 million; Maryland, $9.8 million; and Michigan, $9.2 million.

Former Hocking Sheriff Sentenced

Former Hocking County Sheriff Paul E. Hartman was given a suspended one to 10 year sentence in the Ohio Penitentiary Wednesday.

The sentence was read by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer who was sitting on the Hocking Common Pleas bench by assignment.

Hartman Monday pleaded guilty to using "furtherance of justice" funds to purchase a gas range, a refrigerator-freezer, two air conditioners and an upright freezer. The items purchased were delivered to Hartman's residence.

As a condition of a 3-year probation granted to the former sheriff, he was ordered to make full restitution of the cost of the purchase articles in the amount of $1,834.98 plus six per cent interest from Jan. 3. He was also ordered to pay $905.97, the cost of a special state audit. A rescuscitator, CB Radio, two cooking pots, two cameras, labeler and cleaning supplies found at Hartman's home and property of the county, were ordered returned by Judge Ammer. The former sheriff was also ordered to repay $143 to a slush fund maintained by the deputies that he was accused of taking when he left office.

Hartman was barred forever from holding a public office. In granting probation, Judge Ammer said he took into account the age of the defendant, 63, the fact that as a former law enforcement officer his life would be endangered in a penal institution, and the fact that he had a good record as sheriff of Hocking County for 16 years.

Stolen Car Recovered

A car, stolen from the driveway of a South Bloomfield home, was recovered in Millport early Thursday morning by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Terry Frazier.

The car, a 1969 Chevrolet Caprice, was in good running condition, Deputy Frazier said.

It is owned by Howard Conley, 5057 Nelson Drive, who told Deputy Frazier that the vehicle may have been taken about 12:30 a.m. Thursday.

He reported it stolen 2:48 a.m., and Deputy Frazier made the recovery at 3:27 a.m.

Over $1,400 in harness racing equipment was taken from the home of Lawrence Bentley, 6868 Brooks-Miller Road.

The equipment was apparently taken from the side yard of the home. Equipment includes a sulkey, jog cart, and set of leather harness, according to Deputy Bill Carmean.
